BOROUGH OF NORTH SYDNEY.
ELECTION OF ALDERMEN.
TO GERARD PHILLIPS, Esq., Redlands, Military-road.
Dear Sir,—We, the undersigned Ratepayers, having heard with regret that a late family bereavement has prevented you from offering yourself as a candidate for the position of Alderman for the Borough, respectfully request that you will reconsider your decision, and allow yourself to be nominated; and if you consent, we promise to use our utmost efforts to secure your return.
Signed by Seventy-seven Ratepayers.
To the Ladies and Gentlemen signing the above Requisition.
It had not been my intention to offer myself for re-election on this occasion, and I so informed some of my friends who had called upon me on the subject. But as many of the Ratepayers and old friends and supporters (including two deputations), in addition to your requisition have urged me to allow myself to be nominated, that I could no longer refuse to consent, conceiving it to be my clear duty, no matter what my own feelings might be, to forego them, and offer my services to the ratepayers.
My conduct during the last seven years as an Alderman, and lastly as Mayor of St. Leonards, is well known, and by that I am willing to be judged. And if I am elected, I promise to the utmost of my ability to serve you faithfully in the council, and promote the welfare of our district.
I wish it to be understood that I stand in opposition to no other candidate. Give me one vote only of your six, and vote for the six men offering, and if better men than myself are elected, I shall be perfectly satisfied.
Yours faithfully, GERARD PHILLIPS.

FUGITIVE NOTES.

These are the days of scientific inquiry, when scientific exactitude seems destined to take the place of the empirical ways of our fathers in everything—even in battling with the rabbits and the locusts and all the other common plagues of life. The sickness in our veins is already grasped, and will not be let go till the way is found of killing every bacillus that worries us, from gout to headache. And the rabbits—Pasteur has been tried, and now Koch is importuned, and when hydrophobia and phthisis give the leisure, some murderous microbe will be hunted up and set upon the rabbits. Then comes the locust; but in what way the subcutaneous injection of lymph will be perpetrated on his rather unsucculent anatomy will be the initial puzzle. However, in the blaze of science which now illumines all before us, we look away backward, and wonder at the blundering way we have been going. We scattered poisoned wheat and barley broadcast to kill the rabbits; and we killed the crows and emus and native companions and the flocks of other birds that lived on grubs and insect life, and then we wonder how it is the locusts have come up on us in swarms, turning grassy meadows into desert. It is clear that in this as in everything we must now begin at the beginning instead of bursting in in the middle, and destroying the balances of nature. We have to get behind the locust as we got behind the bacillus, and we must fight him in the way that nature intended. For it is only of analogy that there should be some other creature intended to war against the fecundity of the locust, and this creature we must find and foster, and multiply by incubators; and if it comes to pass in the order of nature that he multiplies so fast as to become himself a nuisance, we must hunt up some other creature that was originally intended to keep him down; and so on and backward we must go until we have got the whole biological reins of government into our hands, and, in the only way in which nature intended, maintain our destined dominion over the creatures. This is the direction in which the finger of science is pointing now, and Koch and Pasteur getting behind the bacillus is only a foreshadowing of our going back to the very fount and origin of things.

Nothing strikes a stranger with a higher sense of admiration than the noble nonchalance of the Sydney cabman. He does not drive over you as a rule but he can go so close to it, without in any wise discomposing his imperturbable equanimity, that in contrast with your own ignoble excitement you are stricken dumb with wonder and—a variety of other simultaneous sensations that need not be more explicitly described. Indeed, it seems at times as if it were the ambition of his life to cultivate the bump of amazement on the heads of the lieges; and to see him pass with a "Hi!" and a lordly wave of the whip, it is impossible to feel otherwise towards him than as towards the ruler of the Queen's highway. There is a vulgar impression that the right of passage in the public streets and footpaths is shared by the humble pedestrian; but this is an error apparently in the estimation of Jehu who, thundering round a corner, or over a crossing as you hastily check your pace and nearly tumble a somersault in your spasmodic effort to clear the way for him and his "Hi!" has the look of an injured man, annoyed that you should have given him the trouble of even noticing your trespass with a "Hi!" For the young and active, street gymnastics of this kind may be proper enough, and possibly even enjoyable to the pedestrian as they certainly are to the driver; but for elderly persons whose thoughts are slow and their joints rheumatic, it is a very serious invasion of their usual mental placidity. One's first impulse is to pick up a rock and heave it at him as he passes on oblivious of having done anything that it was not his duty to do, and with his hat askew and his body gracefully swaying with the gentle undulatory motion of his cab; but milder thoughts intervene and especially that one which tells you that he has got out of reach of your billet doux and so you console yourself with the resolve of writing to the papers, which in time gives way to the milder resolve to "grin and bear it," and so the thing goes on. But it is a very serious business this, and one that demands some drastic regulation. As a matter of fact the roadway to say nothing of the crossings, is as much the right and property of the pedestrian as of the man on wheels; but it is a curious thing, and one that might give theme for curious study, that, place the average man on wheels or on the outside of a horse, and at once, in a double sense, he looks down on struggling humanity. Put a beggar on horseback, says the proverb, and he goes the pace, and probably this cavalier indifference to pedestrians may be generally indicative of contemptible antecedents. But it is high time that a curb were put on the cabman's "Hi!" and on that lordly, reckless driving in the streets that has now become a veritable danger to the community.

The idea of Haussmannising the mother city of Australia is worthy of Australian statesmanship, but it will hardly be realised on the lines of the Moore-street agitation. The impulse that gave us this idea was a sound and good one, but reflection has supervened, and, even so early, men begin to count the cost. If the work of making Sydney what it ought to be is gone about in this piecemeal fashion the ultimate loss may be such as may well make citizens cautious; but there is every probability that if the renovation, or rather the reconstruction, of the city were undertaken on an adequate scale, the loss in money would be simply nil, if indeed a profit could not be made to arise out of the enterprise. That Haussmann's reconstruction of Paris entailed heavily increased burdens on the ratepayers is of course an unpleasant feature of that wonderful transformation scene; but reckless extravagance under the Second Empire, with the free hand given to the Court favourites and robbery rampant everywhere, is no evidence that a similar result would come of the transformation of Sydney, where any jobbery or collusion attempted would have to run the gauntlet of keen public criticism. Under these conditions it is more than probable that every street in Sydney, great and small, could be bought and pulled to pieces and put together again and sold, in better form and on more æsthetic and utilitarian principles, without the eventual loss of a solitary farthing; and if undertaken in a really comprehensive and statesmanlike way Sydney might become what her picturesque and matchless site and surroundings demand that she ought to be—the fairest city under the blue dome of heaven.

Bells! bells! bells! bells! We may only hear it now and then, but there is an underground rumble of protest against the rhyming and the chiming of the bells. Indignant impatience of such complainings may possess the souls of those of us whose associations are bound up and hallowed with the sound of the church-going bell, and whose emotions are set a-ringing when in the soft stillness of the eventide we hum, "Those evening bells, those evening bells; how many a tale their music tells of friends and home, and that sweet time when last we heard their soothing chime." To the sentimental there is probably nothing more soul-softening than the sound of a far-off bell, borne on the air and mellowed by distance; but what with the multiplication of the tintinnabulation in and out of season, and the fact that some of these generators of sweet sounds have but the musical melody of an iron pot beaten by a hammer, there is a growing number of people who in their secret hearts resent the jangling and the wrangling of the bells. The practical question, "Cui bono?" admits of course of but one answer: they are of no use at all. They were created to call people to public worship at a time when public clocks were rare, domestic timepieces were rarer still, and a Waterbury in everyone's pocket would have been the dream of a crank. There are those still who from the pleasant associations of the past are aroused by the first stroke of the bell to start and don their gloves and bonnet, unobservant of the fact that the faithful clock on their mantelpiece, set by the latest shot from Dawes Point, has been steadily pointing to the flight of time. But as a rule, for the practical purposes of its original institution in summoning to public worship the church bell is as useless as the muezzin's call to prayer from the Moslem housetop. Still, admitting this, it is not an indisputable reason for the suppression of the bells, for our innocent and pleasant weaknesses are part and parcel of ourselves, and with them no man has a right to interfere, if they do not interfere with others'. Ay, but there is the rub; and the fact that the dissonant and irregular action of the bells does interfere with others' has become a reason why some action should be taken for their control and regulation. To have a congregation's solemn prayers or meditations broken in upon in a service that has begun an hour ago, by the sudden clanging out from a neighbouring belfry of a church whose worshippers have chosen a later hour for service, is an infliction as unreasonable as it is unchristian, and one that should be made subject to civil law if it is not amenable to christian charity; while the constant jangling of bells, seemingly without provocation or right reason, is a wrong to the vicinage, which no claim to religious liberty should be allowed to sanction. To the sick or dying the crash of bells or the tolling for the dead is often a distress and injury which no consideration should give the right to one section of the community to inflict on others; and the goings on of church bells—now when the conventicle, as well as the cathedral, and all the various intervening ranks of sectarian division, claims to exercise an equal right to put itself in evidence—should in the public interest be fixed by regulations, as are all our other civil rights. To suppress the ringing of church bells, needless now though they be, would be an uncalled-for invasion of sentimental and religious feeling; but a sense of simple justice and of fair play as between man and man compels one to say that they ought to be controlled with due regard to others' rights; and that not only the times and manner of their use, but their tunefulness or dissonance, their agreeable or disagreeable effects on the public ear, compelled to listen to them willy nilly, should be made the subject of civic law. AMUSEMENTS.

THEATRE ROYAL.

The last three nights of "Cinderella" are announced, the run of Mr. George Musgrove's gorgeous production terminating on Friday next. The performance this evening will be specially devoted to juveniles. The pantomime will commence at 7 o'clock and terminate at 10. One hundred and thirty boys from the Vernon will, thanks to the kindness of Mr. Musgrove and the permission of their officers, be present. The popular Irish comedian, Mr. Grattan Riggs, will commence a month's engagement on Saturday next, opening in Dion Boucicault's three-act drama, "Arrah-Na-Pogue." Mr. Riggs will be supported as follows in the principal parts:—Arrah, Miss Appleton; Fanny Power, Miss Constance Deorwyn; Kathy, Miss Maggie Oliver; the O'Grady, Mr. Robert Inman; Beamish, Mr. R. Stewart, jun.; Major Coffin, Captain De Burgh; Winterbottom, Mr. G. Poulton; and Michael Feeney, Mr. Charles Seagrave.

HER MAJESTY'S.

"Dick Whittington and his Cat," so handsomely staged by Mr. George Rignold, and so well played by Miss Margie Moore and her merry companions, continues in the full tide of its success. There is every likelihood of this bright and amusing production being acted until the middle of next month. The third matinée of "Dick Whittington" will be given on Saturday next. On the following Monday Mr. Rignold will give his annual treat to the poor children of the city. On this occasion, as a year ago, the gallery and family circle will be thrown open gratis to all children who cannot afford to pay for admission. Moreover, the occupants of the upper part of the house will be regaled with fruit and sweetmeats, liberal provision having been made in this matter by the medical officers who are attached to this theatre and their friends.

CRITERION.

Messrs. Brough and Boucicault advertise the last three nights of "Harvest." Mr. Henry Hamilton's comedy-drama will, on Friday next, terminate a successful run of three weeks. On the following evening, "Comrades," an original play by Mr. Brandon Thomas and B. C. Stephenson, will be presented for the first time in this city. This piece was originally produced at the Court Theatre, London, eight years since. It had a successful season there, and Mr. Boucicault was in the original cast. Mr. G. S. Titheradge has an important part in the new play. The heroine will be represented by Mrs. Brough, who may be sure of a cordial welcome on her return to the Sydney stage.

GARRICK.

"The Middleman" is being played to good houses. The excellent impersonation of Cyrus Blenkarn by Mr. Charles Cartwright and the charmingly sympathetic acting of Miss Olga Nethersole being warmly and deservedly admired. Mr. Henry A. Jones's powerful play will be withdrawn on Saturday next in order to make way for "The Idler," a drama by Mr. C. Haddon Chambers, which will then be brought out for the first time in Australia.

MADAME MARIAN BURTON.

This excellent singer has had a highly satisfactory tour through New Zealand. Madame Burton is still in New Zealand, but several members of her company, including Mons. Horace Poussard, the well-known violinist, have just returned to Sydney.

A NOVEL BALLOON ASCENT.

The management of the Bondi Aquarium announce a novelty for to-morrow, when Professor Fernandez is to make a balloon ascent and parachute descent by night. It appears that this is to be the first aerial feat of the kind made at night time in the colony. Both balloon and parachute are to be brightly illuminated. On the same evening there will also be a minstrel entertainment and other attractions.

PINKEYE IN HORSES.

The following report has been supplied to the Chief Inspector of Stock by Mr. Ed. Stanley, the Government Veterinarian:—

"I have the honour to report that the present horse sickness is epidemic influenza, chiefly of the hepatic form, called bilious fever. It has often been seen in Melbourne, Adelaide, Brisbane, and Sydney, and has been described by veterinary writers in all parts of the world, as long as veterinary literature has existed, under a variety of names, intended to convey the writer's opinion of its pathology, derived from the prevailing symptoms of the affection, such as "rheumatic influenza," "hepatic influenza," "enteritic influenza," "epizootic pneumonia," "epizootic cellulitis," and the more recent and absurd Americanism "pinkeye." The last name is ridiculous because the natural healthy colour of the conjunctiva of the horse's eye is pink, and in this particular disease the conjunctiva is far more frequently of an orange red, i.e., jaundiced; sometimes it is crimson, as the disease progresses becoming a dirty brown, and even slate colour, but it is never pink until health is restored.

"Character.—It is a contagious equine fever due to germinal matter invading the system, producing disastrous changes in the blood, which interfere with nutrition, excites congestion, and occasionally inflammation of important organs or tissues.

"Cause.—The germs of this disease are always lurking about, and epidemics are due to exceptional climatic changes, that have a lowering effect on the health of horses, and at the same time favour the vitality of the disease germs. The worst cases are amongst hard-working horses, in over-crowded sheds, with bad sanitary surroundings. Next come fat horses, and the least susceptible are horses that are in good working condition, cleanly kept, and well-cared for. If such have the disease at all it is in a mild form and they speedily recover.

"Symptoms.—In the onset, loss of appetite, drowsy headache, pains in the limbs, general weakness. In many cases the eyelids are swollen, tears trickle down the face, there may be discharges from the nostrils, and occasionally coughing. The eye will be found scarlet and orange colour, the tongue furred, breath offensive, the heart beats feebly but quickly, the pulse is small and weak, the dung is soft and the urine high-coloured; there is a general rise of the bodily temperature. As the disease progresses, the symptoms will depend on its course, which is very variable, as the numerous names given to the disease indicate. The vital forces in many cases overcome the toxic effects, and excrete the poison from the system: it is to assist this process that we have recourse to "treatment." This should consist of rest, pure air, shelter from sun, rain, or wind, bran mashes, and cut green food, with drachm doses of chlorate of potash, carbonate of ammonia, or nitrate of potash, given in the drinking water: if the case has been taken early enough, and the surroundings are good, the fever will abate and recovery be complete in a very few days. Unfortunately many horses are worked at the commencement of the illness, then they are completely knocked up, and they present a variety of bad symptoms owing to the mischief being located in individual organs, such as those of respiration, or the bowels, liver, spleen, lymphatic glands, cerebro spinal system. The location can only be diagnosed by the educated veterinarian, and every case should be treated to suit the nature and stage of the illness. Dropsical swellings are a favourable indication, but time and patience must be allowed for recovery. No case is cured until the horse is playful at exercise. I would caution owners to beware of amateur veterinary advice, as far more harm is done by ignorant treatment than by the disease. To illustrate my meaning, a horse with this sickness often has an anxious countenance, dilated nostrils, rapidly panting flanks, due to acute pain, which may be owing to congested liver, laminitis, or other obscure complications; but the charlatan says he has got it on the lungs and proceeds to torture the poor brute by blistering his sides, bleeding, setoning, &c. Such treatment as bleeding, blistering, or purging is very antiquated and erroneous; it is cruel to turn sick horses out to shift for themselves. Thirty years ago I wrote a prize essay on this subject, proving the fallacy of the depletive treatment then in practice. I advocated alkalis, stimulants, then tonics. This line of treatment is now usually adopted, and has proved most successful. My advice is to employ the best qualified veterinary surgeon available and to see the poor animal has a good nurse, with pure air, cleanliness, rest, and comfort. My thanks are due to my veterinary friends and others who have courteously shown me suffering animals, and have given every information, and I can assure you there is no cause for alarm where judicious skill is properly applied in combating the disease."

LICENSING COURT.

A meeting of the Licensing Court was held at the Central Police Court yesterday, before Messrs. G. O'Malley Clarke, S.M., C. Delohery, D.S.M., and J. Graham, L.M. A renewal of a publican's license was granted to Robert O'Connor, of the Riverside Hotel, Marrickville. An auctioneer's special license was allowed to Charles T. Burfitt, of 418 George-street; and music permits, hawkers' and booth licenses were also dealt with.

PRATIQUE TO R.M.S. VICTORIA.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Whilst acknowledging the general correctness of your leader this morning on the above subject, and feeling personally grateful to you for the concise way in which you have stated the case, I must ask to be allowed to make one correction in justice to Dr. Thompson, your chief medical inspector. You state that a glance was sufficient to show him that it was a case of chickenpox, but this rather misrepresents the facts. Dr. Thompson made a most thorough and careful examination of the patient, quite as thorough as the Melbourne authorities, and then came to his decision. I send this correction for fear some cavillers on reading your admirable article might insinuate that the examination here was not thorough. Trusting you will see your way clear to insert this, I am, &c.,

W. H. VICKERY, Surgeon R.M.S. Victoria.

LAW REPORT.

SUPREME COURT.—TUESDAY, JANUARY 27.

In Bankruptcy.—(Before the Registrar, Mr. Arthur Henry.)

CERTIFICATE APPLICATIONS.

Re B. Kahn. The official assignee's report stated that the applicant's bankruptcy was caused by his inability to pay costs of a divorce suit in which he was unsuccessful. Bankrupt had previously been bankrupt, and as the estate had not then realised 10s in the £ it was necessary under the Act that bankrupt should obtain from his former creditors a certificate that his first sequestration was due to misfortune only. The application was adjourned to the 3rd February, to enable bankrupt to obtain such certificate.

Re Samuel Wilson. Mr. Gaden appeared on behalf of the official assignee, and applied for an adjournment of the application. He said that the bankrupt could not be prejudiced by the delay in any way. There were two notices of motion set down for March 2 before the Judge, and they would determine really whether bankrupt should get his certificate or not. A commission had also been issued to take evidence in Melbourne, and that commission had not yet been returned. Mr. Cope appeared on behalf of the bankrupt, and opposed the adjournment on various grounds. The Registrar granted an adjournment to March 10.

Re James Cullen. Mr. J. Shepherd appeared for the bankrupt in support of an application for a certificate of conformity, and read an affidavit by the bankrupt which, he contended, satisfactorily proved that he did not incur debts without having a reasonable prospect of being able to pay the same. The Registrar said that in his opinion the case came under section 38, subsection D, of the Act, and that bankrupt had contracted a debt at a time when he had no reasonable or probable expectation of being able to meet it. He did not think he had any right to purchase a walnut dining-room suite when he actually owed over £7000, and was in receipt of a salary of only £500 a year. At the time bankrupt had owed rent since February, 1889, and he thought bankrupt had been going on obtaining goods on credit in a reckless manner. He would therefore suspend the certificate for six months.

SINGLE MEETINGS AND PUBLIC EXAMINATIONS.

Re Hugh Leonard. The bankrupt attended, and stated that he had never been bankrupt before, nor had he previously made an assignment of his estate. He was a paper merchant, and his failure was caused by losses in Brisbane, deterioration in stock, and failure on the part of the bank to carry out an agreement. The meeting was then adjourned to the 17th February to enable bankrupt to furnish amended accounts by giving the dates upon which his liabilities were incurred.

Re George Pickering. Bankrupt was present, and stated that he did not desire to amend his statement of claim. He had been bankrupt 13 or 14 years before, and had not obtained his certificate. His present bankruptcy was caused by losses in a mining speculation at Guigong and upon a drainage contract for 36 houses. He had had an eighth share in the Salvation Hill mine in June, 1890, but had lost all the interest in it through non-payment of calls. It was not worth anything, although at one time the stone was considered payable. The further hearing was adjourned for a fortnight.

Re Joseph M'Cracken. Bankrupt attended, and amended his statement of claim by adding a debt of £10 10s due to the Picturesque Atlas Company, incurred about five years ago. He was bankrupt about four years ago, and had not applied for his certificate. The single meeting and public examination were then declared closed.

Re John Thomas Power. Bankrupt was present, and said that he did not desire to amend his statement of affairs. His failure was caused by losses sustained consequent upon damage done to a building which he was erecting under contract. The public examination was then declared closed.

VOLUNTARY SEQUESTRATION.

Timothy O'Connor, of Trafalgar-street, Annandale, butcher. Mr. Augustus Morris, official assignee.

LAW NOTICES.

POLICE.

Mr. C. Delohery, D.S.M., presided at the Central Police Court yesterday. Peter Lawler was charged with having assaulted a constable whilst in the execution of his duty. He was fined 20s; or, in default, 21 days' gaol. Agnes Collins was charged with neglecting to support her female infant, thereby endangering its life. Senior-constable Jaffes found the prisoner's child in a house in Chambers-street, starving and destitute. He removed it to the Benevolent Asylum, and arrested the mother. Accused was remanded till Monday next. James Dwyer, 17, a bottler, was remanded until Thursday, on a charge of having stolen a sovereign from the person of Joseph Marina. Peter Olsen was remanded to the Water Police Court on a charge of having stolen from the Southern Club a handbag, a cheque book, and a quantity of papers, the property of Edmund Compton Batt.

In the Charge Division of the Water Police Court Mr. J. Giles, D.S.M., presided. For playing an unlawful game of chance on the Randwick racecourse Frederick Cooper, 36, was sent to gaol for one week. For furious driving, George Parker, cabdriver, was ordered to pay 40s, or be imprisoned for one month. Henry D. Smith, charged by warrant with fraudulently embezzling the sums of £1 6s 2d, 2s, and 1s respectively, the money of his masters, H. Frank Marr and Edmund O'Farrell, trading as Henrey and Co., was sentenced to three months' imprisonment, with hard labour. Accused collected the amounts in question, but failed to account to his employers for them. Alfred Philips, a youth of about 15, was charged with having assaulted a girl named Ellen Ann Schweigeit, aged 14 years. After the taking of prosecutrix's evidence and the medical testimony, the further hearing of the case was adjourned till to-day. Accused was allowed bail in one surety of £1000.

At the Redfern Police Court, Mr. Whittingdale Johnson, S.M., presided. Edwin Booth, 27, was charged with assaulting Matilda Prenser, a married woman. Accused was committed to take his trial at the quarter sessions, to be holden at Darlinghurst on February 2. Bail was allowed; accused in £80, and two sureties of £40 each.

Captain Fisher, S.M., presided at the North Sydney Police Court. Herbert Taylor, arrested by Senior-constable Brennan and Constable Weston, was charged with having stolen a gold watch and a silver chain, of the value of £18, the property of William Gray. It appears that Gray and others were playing cricket on a vacant lot of land at the corner of Berry and Alfred streets. Gray was bowling, and had left his coat on the ground; the batsman struck the ball among some berry bushes, and while Gray was looking for it, Taylor, who was looking on, abstracted the watch. The Bench committed the prisoner for trial at the next Quarter Sessions. Ernest Doyle and Thomas Richard Howard, for neglecting to obey maintenance orders, were directed to be imprisoned until the orders should be satisfied.

ATTEMPTED SUICIDE.

At the Central Police Court yesterday, before Mr. C. Delohery, D.S.M., Benjamin William Leggett was charged with having endeavoured to commit suicide by cutting his throat.

Constable David Smith deposed that, from information which he received, at about 3.30 p.m. on the 21st instant, he proceeded to the residence of the prisoner, 428 Kent-street, and saw the prisoner sitting on the bed with his neck bandaged; prisoner's wife was in the room; witness inquired of the accused what was the matter, and he replied that he had been drinking heavily, and had been aggravated by family troubles, and, therefore, he had attempted to take his life. Prisoner's wife handed witness a blunt razor covered with blood. He removed the accused to the Sydney Hospital.

Dr. Leslie Davies, house surgeon at the Sydney Hospital, deposed that on the 21st instant the prisoner was brought to the institution suffering from a wound in the throat about 3in. in length, but scarcely deeper than the outer skin; the wound was not a dangerous one, and the prisoner did not lose much blood; the wound could have been caused by a razor similar to that produced; he treated the accused, whom he then gave into custody of the police.

Accused, who, in reply to the caution, said, "I have nothing to say," was committed to take his trial at the Court of Quarter Sessions.

MARINE BOARD.

A meeting of the Marine Board was held in the offices yesterday afternoon. Captain Broomfield presided, and there were also present Captains M'Lean, Robertson, Moodie, and Jenkins, and Mr. Wooldridge.

The board gave its decision in reference to the Herga-Julia collision as follows:—"Whereas the Marine Board have instituted an inquiry respecting the collision between the steamer Herga and the schooner Julia, which took place on January 10, the said board now report that the said collision was caused by the wrongful act or default of David Howell, the master of the Herga, in having committed a breach of the 17th article of the steering and sailing rules, which enacts as follows:—'If two ships, one of which is a sailing ship, are proceeding in such directions as to involve risk of collision, the steamship shall keep out of the way of the sailing ship.' Taking all the circumstances of the case into consideration the board are of opinion that a reprimand to David Howell, and a caution to be more careful in future, will meet the merits of the case."

The inquiry into the cause of the foundering of the schooner Susie, near Port Stephens, was again postponed until Monday next, in consequence of the non-appearance of the master.

INQUEST.

The City Coroner held an inquest in Maddon's Bridge Hotel, Forest Lodge, yesterday afternoon, touching the death of a young man named Ernest Robey, who was drowned on Monday afternoon through the capsizing of a boat in Johnson's Bay. From the evidence elicited, it appears that the deceased, who was 19 years of age, and his brother Herbert and a youth named Walter Grey, were sailing on the afternoon in question, and when off Glebe Island, a sudden gust of wind caused their boat to heel over. All were thrown into the water, and deceased, who could not swim, was drowned. His brother held him up for a time, but was compelled to relinquish his grasp in order to avoid being drowned himself. Grey and Herbert Robey were picked up by James Lakie, a seaman on board the brig Defiance, in an exhausted condition. The jury returned a verdict of accidental death, and added a rider commending Lakie for his action in rescuing two of the lads.

When the eyes become weak or the lids inflamed and sore, a scrofulous condition of the blood is indicated. For scrofula, in all its forms, Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the best remedy. It vitalizes the blood and expels all humours.—[Advt.]

"A VEXED INHERITANCE."
THE RIGHT OF PUBLICATION IN NEW SOUTH WALES PURCHASED BY THE PROPRIETORS OF THE ECHO.
"A VEXED INHERITANCE," by ANNIE S. SWAN, Author of "Twice Tried," "Across Her Path," "Sundered Hearts," "Aldersyde," "The Gates of Eden," "Briar and Palm," "Freedom's Sword," &c., &c.
All who enjoy pure, wholesome, and domestic Fiction, will be interested in the perusal of Miss Annie S. Swan's absorbing work—"A Vexed Inheritance"—the serial publication of which will be begun in the Echo of Saturday, January 31.
MISS SWAN was born in 1859, and commenced writing stories when 17 years of age. From the very first her success was promising. Her stories struck deep into the hearts of her readers, and each new work found an increasing circle of expectant friends awaiting its appearance. In 1883 she made a decided hit with "Aldersyde: a Border Story" which was received with a general chorus of approval, the Right Hon. W. E. Gladstone being one among many others to write to the author expressing the pleasure he had experienced in reading the book. Since then she has written many novels—all recognisable by the impress of the same master hand, and all ministering to the same public want for healthy fiction which would appeal to all the members of the family circle. In studying to meet this requirement of human nature Miss Swan has found her proper sphere, as the ever-growing number of her readers abundantly testifies.
"A VEXED INHERITANCE."
Briefly, "A Vexed Inheritance" may be described as the story of the abduction of a child, the heir to a baronetcy, by a "woman scorned," in revenge for the wrongs she has received at the hands of the child's father, who jilted her. The strange and manifold influences thence exercised over the lives of many persons are well brought out. Though it is an incident often employed in fiction, the author handles it with a considerable amount of originality, and the result is a thoroughly enjoyable story, written in an easy, flowing style, with marked individuality in the principal characters. The work is a love story from first to last, and few authors know better than Miss Swan how to describe the love passion of her kind.
"A VEXED INHERITANCE," by ANNIE S. SWAN, WILL BE BEGUN IN THE ECHO OF SATURDAY, JANUARY 31.

The Sydney Morning Herald

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 28, 1891.

ON Monday Lord Carrington read his paper on Australia before a large and distinguished audience.

IMPERIAL Federation, said Lord Carrington, was a beautiful and suggestive proposal, but in practice would have to encounter many difficulties.

IT would, he said, be better to draw Australia to the old country by cords of love, leaving her otherwise to have her own way.

ON the subject of Colonial Federation, Lord Carrington highly eulogised Sir Henry Parkes, whose courage, eloquence, and statesmanship, he said, showed him to be a man born to shape the destinies of a young but growing country.

LORD CARRINGTON considered that colonial Judges ought to be appointed on the Committee of the Privy Council, and that Chief Justices ought to receive life peerages.

A VOTE of thanks to Lord Carrington was moved by Sir Henry Norman and seconded by Sir Saul Samuel.

TO-DAY Lord Jersey leaves on an official visit to Goulburn.

ABOUT midnight on Monday a fight occurred in Melbourne, near the Post Office between two letter-carriers and some larrikins, and one of the former was kicked to death.

AT the meeting of the Marine Board yesterday it was decided, in reference to the Herga-Julia collision which took place on January 10, that the merits of the case would be met with a reprimand to the master of the Herga, and a caution to be more careful in future.

YESTERDAY at Orange some members of the Salvation Army were summoned for obstructing the public thoroughfare. The cases were adjourned pending an appeal to the Supreme Court.

JUDGE BACKHOUSE yesterday presided at the Campbelltown District Court and Quarter Sessions, in place of Judge M'Farland, who was taken suddenly ill on Saturday.

SPECIAL trains leave Sydney to-day and to-morrow for Kiama, in connection with the show.

TENDERS were received yesterday for the erection of new station buildings and the construction of a subway at Katoomba. The lowest was that of Mr. W. Mainer, of Sydney, £6208.

FOR the flood openings on the railway near Bourke four tenders were received, the lowest being that of Messrs. Taylor and M'Clure, £7218.

THE laying of wooden blocks on Cook's River-road was begun yesterday, and the work will extend as far as the Cook's River dam.

THE construction of a tramway along this road to the Cook's River dam is to be proceeded with in conjunction with the work of wood-paving. The line will be a double one.

YESTERDAY morning a man named Francis C. South, formerly a barrister in New Zealand, was charged at the Newcastle Police Court with stealing a watch, and was committed for trial. Accused stated that he had already been proved to be insane, and had been in nine asylums during the last three years.

THERE are 17 nominations for the six vacancies on the Borough Council of North Sydney.

AT a meeting of the proprietors of the Union Bank of Australia, held in London on Monday, a dividend at the rate of 14 per cent. was declared, and about £16,000 carried forward.

OWING to a fire that occurred at Islington, near Newcastle, on Monday night, a child, about 10 years old, was burnt to death, and the life of another child is despaired of.

YESTERDAY the Northern express was nearly two hours late in reaching Newcastle, owing to a coal train running off the line near the junction of the West Wallsend and the Sydney lines, and blocking traffic.

A WOMAN and a boy were found dead on the Geelong line, in Victoria, on Monday night. It is supposed they fell out of the evening train from Melbourne.

THE Governor, accompanied by Sir Henry Parkes and Mr. Goschen, visited Darlinghurst Gaol yesterday, and was shown over the building.

JOHNSTONE, the perpetrator of the Ballarat tragedy, is reported to be sinking rapidly.

MR. ALEXANDER WILSON (pastoralist) and Mr. James Doyle (wharfinger) were examined yesterday before the Labour Commission. The next gentleman to give evidence will be Mr. W. E. Abbott.

MR. JAMES DOYLE said that he had had nearly 22 years' experience of wharf labouring in Sydney, and was of opinion that if the unions were done away with there would be no strikes.

IT has been resolved in Bathurst to entertain Mr. W. H. Suttor at a public banquet on the occasion of his leaving the district to reside in Sydney.

AN official announcement appeared in the Government Gazette yesterday of the prorogation of Parliament until March 17.

THE formation of the Permanent Medical Staff Corps was also formally announced yesterday.

AT a meeting of the council of the Freetrade and Liberal Association yesterday the energetic secretary, Mr. Pulsford, tendered his resignation, which was received with regret. A general meeting has been called to take steps to fill the vacancy.

A LETTER from the clerk of the Sydney Presbytery was read yesterday at a meeting of the Presbytery of Goulburn complaining of the action of the Rev. F. Slade in allowing Mr. A. Gardiner to lecture on behalf of his church, and moving a vote of sympathy with him, which the Presbytery consider casts a slur upon their action.

THE Rev. F. Slade was heard in explanation, and his explanation was considered satisfactory, though the action was held to be unwise.

A REPORT on the pinkeye disease in horses, supplied by the Government Veterinarian, is given in this issue. In passing he speaks of the absurdity of the American name of "pinkeye" now given to the disease.

IN the coming Federal Convention the Victorian Government will only be represented by the Premier. Mr. Wrixon, the late Attorney-General, should, it is thought, waive his appointment in favour of the present Attorney-General, but this he declines to do.

THE intercolonial cricket match was resumed on the Association Ground yesterday. The first innings of the New South Wales team closed for 465 runs, Moses scoring 147. Victoria in the second innings has gained 5 without the loss of a wicket.

IN the Mining market yesterday business was dull. During the day Centrals increased in value.

THE Customs revenue received yesterday amounted to £9718.

We referred some days ago to the question of the loss of revenue which the colonies would suffer by the establishment of intercolonial freetrade, and pointed out that if, instead of taking into account the whole trade between the colonies, the calculation rested only upon the interchange of colonial products, the loss would be small, and would be hardly worth consideration as an obstacle in the way of federation. The question may be regarded from another point of view, and, in fact, has been to a certain extent already. How would the establishment of intercolonial freetrade work out in the colonies which have adopted the policy of protection? What amount of protection would they lose by this means? In New South Wales we have not intentionally protected ourselves by restricting the importation of our neighbours' products. There are, it is true, a few items in our tariff which have a protective effect, as for instance the duties on wines. These duties are borne by wines of the other colonies, as well as by those of Europe. They were not imposed for the purpose of protection; but they have the effect of restricting trade in the colonial product, as well as in the wines imported from across the sea. The probability is that if colonial wines were allowed to pass free, there would be an increase in our exports as well as in our imports. It is just possible that we should send away more than we received. As to our other products, if some of them are accidentally protected, there is reason to believe that their production without the duties would, instead of decreasing, flourish under healthier conditions. This colony, at any rate, professing adherence to freetrade, and as a rule carrying that profession into practice, cannot look upon the establishment of intercolonial freetrade in a thorough-going way with apprehension. Our belief is that our interests would not lose, but gain, by the change. But as we already tax so little that we receive from our neighbours, the question is of comparatively small importance here. It is true that in some parts of the colony, especially near the borders, a desire for protection has shown itself within the last few years; but there is little doubt that this feeling has derived its strength chiefly from the spirit of retaliation engendered by the protective duties levied across the border. It has been due not so much to a belief in the theory of protection as to indignation caused by unneighbourly and unfair treatment; and it is therefore reasonable to expect that if the cause of irritation were removed the effect, produced by it would disappear. If the duties were not collected on the one side they would not be asked for on the other.

The question, however, is of greater importance in the colonies that have intentionally adopted a policy of protection, which operates against their neighbours as well as against the outside world. There are, nevertheless, indications that even where protection prevails this part of the subject is beginning to be seen in a new light. In South Australia, for instance, although a protective tariff has not long been in force, it is seen that freetrade with the other colonies may be a more profitable policy to pursue. So much is to be gathered from the report of the Commission on intercolonial freetrade which was issued a short time ago. It is beginning to be recognised that the risks to be run through the competition of the other colonies would be outweighed by the advantages of a larger commercial interchange which the liberation of trade would bring. In Victoria it has become apparent with increasing clearness for some time past, that the protective policy as applied to the relations of the colonies between themselves has been undergoing revision, and that the faith felt in it is not so strong as it was a few years ago. It is true that when the tariff was last overhauled an increase of protection was the result. But it is impossible to overlook the growth of a strong desire to obtain free access to wider markets. Victorian manufacturers have acknowledged that the prospects of their success in the future depend upon the increase of their sales in the other colonies. They are confident in their ability to face the competition of the other colonies, and they are beginning to understand that the exclusive policy of Victoria tends to produce exclusiveness elsewhere, and that even where it has not had that effect, it limits interchange, because in the long run commercial intercourse, if it is to grow, must be of benefit to both sides. Victorian manufacturers want a larger Australian market, and at least some of them see that if they are to obtain free access they must give free access as well. Whether such views would be predominant if the question of intercolonial freetrade were fairly raised may be only a matter of speculation at present, but that they have a certain amount of influence is hardly to be doubted, and so far as they are influential they favour the cause of intercolonial freetrade as a policy from which there is little to be feared, and much to be hoped for. In Queensland protection is a recent growth, but the experience gained under it is not encouraging if we may judge from the state of trade and the condition of the labour market. It is difficult to suppose that if the other three colonies of the continent were prepared for intercolonial freetrade the Northern colony would adhere to a policy of exclusion. In Tasmania protection has been in a large measure retaliation, and if there were no sense of wrong to be redressed a preference for free intercourse would probably soon show itself. So far as the surrender of any supposed gain from intercolonial protection is concerned, there seems to be no reason for fearing that the prospects of federation are likely to be seriously affected by it.

In the colonial legislatures and the political circles outside there is a party of protection to be reckoned with, and it is a question how far men who have attached themselves to that party, and whose hopes of a successful career lie in its progress and success, will look upon this matter of intercolonial freetrade with tolerance or with favour. As we have already pointed out, the cause of protection has derived much support from the sense of injury which exclusive action has produced, and from the desire for retaliation which has been aroused by it. In the long run, however, the cause of protection could not benefit by setting the colonies by the ears, and the development of attacks and retaliation all round would be a sort of reductio ad absurdum which would be attended by some risk. Besides that, it is sufficiently obvious that such progress as the federation movement has already made is traceable chiefly to the influence of the Australian sentiment, which has been gaining so rapidly in strength during the last few years. If it is said that the spirit of retaliation before referred to is evidence pointing the other way, it may be replied that the provocation has been the more acute because intercolonial protection is obviously opposed to intercolonial co-operation and sympathy. Exclusion from a neighbouring market is resented more strongly than exclusion from a market beyond the sea; and the same instinct which is at the origin of this resentment should ensure a welcome to a serious attempt to cast down all intercolonial barriers and make intercourse between all the colonies free.

The recent loan conversion negotiations of Russia and France have been marked by a new feature, which, if developed more extensively, so as to apply to British communities, may have an important influence on our finances. This is neither more nor less than the enforced conversion of the National bonds issued for given periods at fixed rates of interest into stock of a lower denomination. Protests by holders of the original stock were disregarded. If the creditors of the country did not care to accept a transfer, they were paid off, and others received allotments of the new issues. This new national policy has been rendered possible by the accumulation of surplus wealth not available for investment on more profitable terms in private enterprises. The great industrial developments of the past quarter of a century have created more money than can be invested at the rates of interest formerly current. The means of investment have not grown proportionately to the increase of wealth, and, following the usual economic law, the owners of capital have to accept lower rates of interest. A larger proportion of the whole has come into the possession of wage-getters and others, who do not embark in business on their own account, but seek employment for their capital in co-operative undertakings, whether of private companies, municipal councils, or the Governments of States. As the private undertakings have in many instances been overdone, and it is difficult to find safe securities, Government stocks have been more largely sought after. It is true that for a year or two past colonial stocks have not been so much inquired for, and the prices of these have slightly fallen. But, simultaneously with their depreciation, some of the stocks of the Continental Governments have risen in value. It is this appreciation which some Governments have considered themselves entitled to take advantage of by converting high-priced securities into others of lower denomination.

No one will be particularly surprised at the action of the Russian Government. Its policy is usually arbitrary. It simply had no more regard for its creditors in this matter, than it had for England and other contracting nations when it broke the treaty which neutralised the Black Sea. Leading financial authorities sought to prevent the Russian conversion by the threat of refusal of quotation of the new bonds on the Stock Exchanges of the world. But the Russian Government persisted in its design and effected a conversion, to its own immediate advantage and to the loss of the stockholders. We might have expected something better from France. Indeed, in the recent French conversion operation our recent files show that the Government of France sought to preserve the public honour by adhering to the contracts made with its bondholders. Part of an old loan consisted of 30-year bonds issued in 1876, bearing 4 per cent. interest, and carrying printed on their verso a table of redemption. Leading French financiers, in opposition to the Government, contended that the table of redemption was not a contract, and that the State had a right to anticipate the date of payment if it found it to its advantage to do so. M. PELLETAN went still further, and maintained that a law did not constitute an indelible contract, as it could not limit the power of subsequent Parliaments to modify Acts previously voted. The views of the Opposition were adopted. Another amendment in favour of reducing 5 per cent. bonds into 3½ per cent. stock was also carried against the Government. It was contended that the State had a right to benefit by the improved credit of France. Though the Government protested against what it regarded as confiscation, it accepted the votes of the Chamber and made arrangements for putting them into execution.

It may perhaps be doubted whether the principle that Parliament may repudiate financial engagements entered into by the State, which is naturally causing concern to the holders of large portions of the national securities of France, will be accepted in British communities. At a glance it may appear only fair that the State should derive the benefit from the reduction in the value of money, which is brought about by no action of the lender. But if the price of money rose, what then? Would the capitalist have the right to break his contract, demand payment of his principal, and the issue to him of stock bearing a higher interest rate? To be an evenly-balanced contract that would obviously be required. It may seem unlikely that the value of money will rise, since accumulations are increasing. There is apparent rather the probability of a still lower rate of interest. But no one can foretell that a great war or other source of absorption may not raise the value of money. In any case, if a Government borrows for thirty or forty years at a given rate of interest, it effects a contract which in equity the British law courts would doubtless hold to be binding for the full period. That, indeed, has been the decision of a French law court; the French Council of State, from a legal standpoint, having decided that the term or date for payment was a bilateral contract. But the doctrine held by M. PELLETAN, that one law creating a contract can be over-ruled by another, has been practically adopted by the action of the Parliament and accepted by the Government. In these communities Parliaments almost invariably respect vested rights by refusing to allow retrospective effect to be given to the provisions of new statutes. How much less likely would they be to pass a conversion loan bill to abrogate the advantages given under a previous one? Some fifty years ago it was feared that the British nation was committed to the payment of a high rate of interest for all time on a portion of its debt. The liability was not questioned. But a clause, which had been overlooked, was discovered by which the conversion of the bonds could be effected without legal or moral prejudice to the creditor. In his great conversion scheme in 1887, Mr. GOSCHEN was entitled to effect the reduction he made, and he took care to effect it on such terms as were likely to be of advantage to the State, with a graduated reduction in the interest rate to 2½ per cent., terminable at a not very distant date.

In regard to colonial loans, we have for some years past pointed out the true course for the State. Since it was apparent that the value of money for investment purposes was declining, we protested against the issue of loans for fifty and forty years, urging that in view of the cheapening of money it would be better to borrow for only twenty or twenty-five. The policy against which we remonstrated leaves the colony with over £20,000,000 of debt, on which we have to pay interest at the rate of nearly 4 per cent for long terms, when it was possible to have borrowed the money for half the time and have renewed the loans at lower rates. If it could be regarded as legal or equitable to do what Russia and France have done, the colony might convert its 5 and 4 per cent. stocks into 3½ per cents. at a great saving to the State—of course, assuming the willingness of capitalists to give us the money. But this we cannot do. And if we could legally attempt to convert our loans into stock of a smaller denomination, our credit would suffer. The sense of security which is created by respect for contracts adds to the price which is given for every new loan we require. To a colony which wants more money this is a very important point. It will be to our interest to keep to British precedent, and to take advantage of the cheapening of money in more legitimate ways than in the repudiation of the terms of a contract.

It takes many varieties of incident to make up the records of a year, but the least enlivening summary is that contained in the Coroner's annual report. It is a synopsis of all the startling deaths that have occurred, some of them merely from natural causes, but all of them certainly of a character that demanded scrutiny to see whether they had their origin in foul play. The report for the metropolitan district for 1890 has been published, and gives a list of 570 cases that demanded the Coroner's attention; but in 263 of these their causes were so patent and void of suspicion that formal inquiry was dispensed with. Of the rest by far the largest section consists of accidental death, no fewer than ninety persons having died from the effects of accidents in thirty-five varieties of form. Fourteen persons seem a large number to have met their death by railway accidents in one year within the metropolitan area; but considering the vast number of travellers, the percentage of deaths is a small one compared with what it would probably have been had as many travellers been carried by any other form of conveyance. That only nine deaths have occurred in connection with trams might be almost a matter of surprise, as, with a system of really street railways traversing for almost all their length the most busy thoroughfares, the conditions are such as would lead one to expect a far more numerous list of fatal accidents. Sixty-five persons met with their deaths by drowning — an eloquent testimony to the culpable neglect of the art of swimming, for though among these cases of accidental drowning there were some which no skill in swimming would have spared, the greater part of the victims would probably be alive to-day had they been able to swim. The most melancholy group in the list of sudden deaths, is that of the forty-four who gave up the battle of life voluntarily, choosing their chances of a better fate in the great unknown. Of these it is singular to note that nearly a fourth elected to make their exit by that form of death which is commonly looked upon as the most opprobrious and repellent, ten of the suicides having hanged themselves; shooting, drowning, the knife, and poison being chosen by the other victims in nearly equal proportion, two only electing rather eccentric forms of death, one by stepping in front of a railway train, and one by suffocation from stuffing the coat-sleeve into the mouth. Of the eleven verdicts of murder no less than eight were cases of infanticide, the prevalence of this offence being one of the most discreditable stains on our social system. Four deaths from quarrelling, one from negligence in driving, and one from the passionate use of his crutch by a cripple, constitute the list of manslaughters; but one of the most startling items in the year's death record is that of the four persons who successively died under the influence of chloroform, administered in professional operations in a single institution. The deaths from heart disease, apoplexy, and other natural causes make up a considerable part of the Coroner's report; but there is a pregnant sentence towards the close of it that carries a melancholy lesson of its own—"In 51 cases intemperance contributed towards death." The statement is sad enough in itself, but it is probable that if every case could be traced to its source, it would be found that this bane of our social welfare, indirectly if not directly, is chargeable with a far heavier indictment as an accessory before the fact.

HIS Excellency the Earl of Jersey will leave Sydney to-day on an official visit to Goulburn, where he will be banqueted to-morrow. The Hon. W. H. Suttor, Vice-President of the Executive Council, will accompany his Excellency.

YESTERDAY afternoon his Excellency the Governor, accompanied by the Premier and Mr. Fuller (a guest at Government House), and attended by Mr. Goschen (private secretary), paid a visit to Darlinghurst Gaol. The vice-regal party was received by the Minister for Justice (the Hon. A. J. Gould), the Comptroller-General of Prisons (Mr. Miller), the Governor of the Gaol (Mr. Herbert), the visiting surgeon (Dr. Maurice J. O'Connor), and the Church of England chaplain (Minor-Canon Rich). The inspection lasted about an hour and a-half, and his Excellency appeared to be much interested. Before leaving, he made a memorandum in the visitors' book in the following terms:—"I am pleased to state that I found all departments in good order."

HIS Excellency Lord Jersey presided over the weekly meeting of the Executive Council yesterday. With the exception of Mr. M'Millan and Mr. Sydney Smith, all the Ministers were present. The only business of public importance was the proclamation of the following holidays:—Braidwood, February 6; Shoalhaven, February 12 and 20; Hartley, February 13; Tumbarumba, February 17; Macleay, February 4; and Kempsey, February 27.

NEXT week his Excellency the Earl of Jersey will pay an official visit to the Liverpool Asylum. It is not definitely decided whether or not Sir Henry Parkes will accompany his Excellency.

THE further prorogation of Parliament from the 3rd proximo to the 17th March was announced in a supplement to the Government Gazette issued yesterday evening.

SIR JOHN ROBERTSON, who on Monday was seriously indisposed, was considerably better in health yesterday.

THE Colonial Secretary has directed that local government inquiries be held at Braidwood and Moruya with regard to the petitions and counter-petitions for the incorporation of these towns and the surrounding districts. Mr. George Lewis will proceed to these towns to hold the inquiries early in the coming month.

TO-DAY the following deputations will wait upon the Minister for Lands:—Progress Association of Sutherland, in regard to a site for a cemetery, at 11 a.m.; and at 11.30 a.m. a deputation from a public meeting held regarding the bowling-green in Victoria Park.

IN connection with the Kiama Show, special trains will leave Sydney to-day and to-morrow at 7.10 a.m., arriving at Kiama about 10 a.m., and returning from Kiama each day at 6 p.m., and arriving in Sydney about 9.15 p.m. Holiday excursion tickets issued from the 27th, 28th, and trains timed to arrive at Kiama up to 12.50 p.m. on the 28th will be available for return up to Saturday, January 31.

IT has been determined that the next Easter Encampment of the infantry regiments, the mounted forces, and the field artillery shall be held at Campbelltown. The camp will be pitched on land privately owned, and which has been lent for the occasion. Since the proposal to change the camping ground from National Park to Campbelltown was mooted, dissatisfaction has been expressed by people who annually take interest in the Easter manœuvres of our defence force. By the general public Campbelltown is considered to be too far from Sydney.

OWING to the absence of the Railway Commissioners from headquarters, they being on a visit of inspection along the Western and Mudgee railway lines, the weekly budget of tenders was opened yesterday by Mr. Hall, the chief accountant, and Mr. H. M'Lachlan, the secretary of the department. Offers were received for the execution of several important works, these included the erection of new station buildings and the construction of a subway at Katoomba. It is recognised that the growing importance of this favourite mountain resort demands much more accommodation than is at present provided. Elaborate plans were prepared, and yesterday five tenders were received to complete the work, the lowest being that of Mr. W. Mainer, of Sydney, price, £6208. Four fresh tenders for the flood openings on the railway near Bourke were opened, the lowest being that of Messrs. Taylor and M'Clure, whose price is £7218. For the proposed new parcels office and the roofing of the tramway platforms at Redfern, eight tenders were received; lowest, Mr. John M'Donald, of Randwick, price £3579. Mr. John Coates, of Sydney, sent in the lowest tender for the supply of a 15-ton crane at Darling Harbour, his price being £695. 15 tenders were also received for the supply of fencing material at schedule prices.

TENDERS are being invited by the Minister for Works for the construction of a concrete channel to relieve part of the eastern slopes of Macdonaldtown and Newtown from storm water. This work forms a part of the scheme of stormwater drainage determined upon by Mr. Bruce Smith in October last, as supplementary to the sewerage scheme now being carried out. As the sewerage scheme proper will necessarily take a considerable time to complete, owing to the magnitude of the works, the stormwater system is being rapidly pushed forward, in order that it may serve as a temporary relief in the thickly-populated districts. The channels will not only relieve the districts they traverse from floods, but will tend to reduce the evils arising from the creek beds being charged with sewerage matter which flows into them from the street gutters and yards, and which now appear as foetid pools, festering in the sun. The abundant water supply at present available will be freely used for constantly flushing the down water-channels. The contract commences at the junction of Union-street and Munni-street, along which it runs to Toogood-street, where it enters private property, more or less closely following the present course of the creek to Macdonaldstreet. After passing along that street to its eastern end, it again enters private property, and runs generally along the course of the creek to a little below Messrs. Green and Son's tannery, where it discharges into the canal now being constructed by the Harbour and Rivers Department, along the course of Shea's Creek. The total length of this channel will be about 77 2-5 chains. For 20 chains from the outfall the channel will be open, 12ft. 3in. wide, by 7ft. 4½in. deep, on a gradient of 1 in 300; from thence it will be covered, and will range in size from 10ft. 6in. by 6ft. 6in. to 2ft. 6in. circular. The gradients will range from 1 in 27¼ to 1 in 848, and the whole of the work will be carried out in concrete.

A PROCLAMATION was published in a supplement to the Government Gazette yesterday authorising the formation of a permanent Medical Staff Corps, the establishment of which has already been sanctioned by Parliament.

THE Royal Commission appointed to investigate and report upon the causes and conflicts between capital and labour known as strikes and the best means of preventing or mitigating the disastrous consequences of such occurrences held its 13th meeting in the Queensland offices, Bridge-street, yesterday afternoon, Dr. Garran, M.L.C., the president, being in the chair. Mr. Alexander Wilson, pastoralist, was further examined, and Mr. James Doyle, wharfinger at the A. U. S. N. Co.'s wharf, was also questioned. At the next meeting of the commission Mr. W. E. Abbott will be examined.

THE Government Printer has forwarded to the Department of Public Instruction a proof copy of the "School History of Australia," written by Mr. Lusk, barrister-at-law, who, it will be remembered, was the successful competitor for the £300 prize offered for the performance of this task. The letterpress of the history is completed, and it has been sent to the Department in a paper cover. The book however, awaits the insertion of maps and diagrams. It has been suggested that before the work is finally bound the statistics appearing somewhat profusely throughout the volume shall be revised by the Government Statistician and by the Instruction Department. The Minister has approved of this suggestion. The history fills 433 pages octavo, which are divided into 34 chapters. The first 278 pages are devoted to the history of Australia from its discovery, and chiefly to New South Wales, the other colonies only receiving incidental reference, and chapters deal with mining, pastoral, and agricultural pursuits, internal and external communication, social and moral development, citizenship, constitutional history, and similar topics. Each of the other colonies is dealt with separately. Victorian history begins on page 278, and goes to 314; South Australia from page 315 to 349; Queensland from page 349 to 359; Western Australia from page 360 to 370; New Zealand from page 370 to 427; and from page 427 to the end of the book the history is of Fiji and the Pacific settlement. The writing of it is brought down to the date of the present Government taking office. The book is printed with clear type, on good paper, and each page bears marginal headlines.

THE work of woodpaving the Cook's River-road, from the railway bridge at King-street, Newtown, as far as the Illawarra railway bridge was commenced yesterday. The Cook's River-road is a Government road, but as soon as the wood-blocking is completed the road will be taken over by the Newtown Municipal Council and maintained by that body. The road is to be paved for a distance of 55 chains. Another work is being carried out at the same time as the woodpaving. A double line of tramway is to be constructed, and the tramway is to go as far as the Cook's River dam. A new kind of rail is to be used for the tram line. Hitherto in tram road construction 4in. rails have been used, but the new rails are to be 6in. deep, and, instead of being laid on sleepers, they will be laid on the cement bed and fixed with iron tie rods. This, it is said, will prevent the wooden blocks from springing as they do at present in places. The initial cost of this line will be greater than if constructed in the old style of laying the rails, but the cost of maintenance will be greatly minimised. The contractors for the works are Messrs. Wilmot and Morgan, and the cost is estimated at £20,000. The Newtown Municipal Council has contributed £300) towards the cost of carrying out the work, which, it is expected, will be completed by the end of August next, and when the contract is fairly started it will give employment to 100 men and about 50 horses and carts. To celebrate the commencement of this work, which is of considerable importance to the inhabitants of Newtown, a number of the residents assembled in St. George's Hall, yesterday morning, where lunch was partaken. Amongst those present were—Alderman Dolman, Mayor of Newtown, who occupied the chair; Messrs. Joseph Abbott, Molesworth, and Hawken, the members for the district. The toasts of "The Event we Celebrate," "The Members for the District," and "The Contractors," were amongst those honoured.

His Honor Judge M'Farland was taken suddenly ill on Saturday last, and in consequence Judge Backhouse presided at the Campbelltown District Court and Quarter Sessions. Yesterday Judge M'Farland was much improved in health.

Mr. Giles will continue to act as stipendiary magistrate at the Water Police Court for another month, during which period Mr. T. K. Abbott, S.M., will continue absent on sick leave.

The intercolonial cricket match between New South Wales and Victoria was continued at the Association Ground yesterday. The New South Wales players, who had lost six wickets on the previous day for 262 runs, raised their score to 466 by half-past 5 o'clock, when the last wicket fell. This left them with the substantial lead of 284 on the first innings, and the Victorians at the call of time had scored 5 without the loss of a wicket in their second innings. The match will be resumed to-day at noon.

The bowling green on St. Leonards Park, North Sydney, came in for some criticism from a speaker who took his stand on the reserve on Sunday last, and who, during his remarks, intimated his intention of seeking the intervention of the Minister for Lands to abolish the green, the ground being public property. The president of the club which has laid out the green, Mr. Francis Punch, states in regard thereto that the club holds a lease from the borough council, who are the trustees, with the sanction of the Minister for Lands, and pays the council a rental of £10 per annum. The club has, he says, been formed about three years, and has already spent about £600 on the ground. The members number about 75 gentlemen, who are all leading residents of the district. While the park comprises an area of about 40 acres, the bowling green takes up barely half an acre, and although portions of the reserve are set apart for football, cricket, and bicycling, no objections are raised to those facilities being afforded to sportsmen. There are, the president observes, plenty of seats for the accommodation of any of the general public who may be desirous of witnessing the game, and on Saturday afternoon last, when the band of the railway and tramway service was there, about 300 people were present.

Under the auspices of the Highland Society a successful social re-union was held in West's Rooms, Castlereagh-street, last evening, by the Burns Club, in order to celebrate the 132nd anniversary of the birth of Scotland's bard, Robert Burns. The chair was occupied by the president, Mr H. Anderson. An enjoyable programme, including songs, duets, solos, and recitations appropriate to the occasion, was gone through, all the contributions being well received. The president gave a brief address, touching upon the history, aims, and objects of the club. Mrs. Kirk acted as accompanist. At the termination of the first portion of the programme dancing was commenced, and continued till a late hour. Messrs. Doyle and Munro performed the duties of M.C.

Last night some ruffians at Moore Park threw a shower of stones on to the dressing tent of the Wild West Show. Two stones entered the tent, one of which struck Mr. Philip Wirth, and the other struck Miss Wirth, inflicting a severe scalp wound.

On Thursday evening last Miss Ackerman delivered a lecture entitled "Alaska, the Land of the Midnight Sun," at Granville, and repeated the closing scenes from a lecture recently delivered by her in Parramatta, on "The Women of Asia." The audience was large. The Mayor occupied the chair. On Friday afternoon Miss Ackerman addressed a meeting of ladies at Castle Hill, and formed a branch of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, with a membership of 26. In the evening a meeting was held, which was so largely attended that numbers were unable to obtain admission.

At St. Andrew's, Summer Hill, after the close of the evening service on January 21, the incumbent and churchwardens presented to Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Barr—the former of whom has filled the office of churchwarden for some time, and the latter has assisted for several years in the choir—with a farewell address, accompanied by a plated eggstand, in recognition of their valuable services in connection with the church, and wishing them Godspeed. On Friday evening last the choir boys at St. John's, Glebe, whose Mr. Sharp has for some time been organist and choirmaster, presented him with an address and a set of plated table napkin rings.

On Sunday evening last, the girls attending the confirmation class conducted by the Rev. Edmund B. Proctor at Christ Church, Enmore, presented that gentleman with an address and testimonial in recognition of the kindness they experienced at his hands while being prepared for their recent confirmation, and also as an acknowledgment of their thanks for the benefit received from his instruction. The address was read by Miss Florence Seymour, and the presentation made on behalf of the girls by Miss Carrie Smith. Mr. Proctor acknowledged the present, which was a valuable piece of library furniture, consisting of inkstand, drawers, &c.

The following semi-official explanation of the course adopted by the Victorian health authorities, with regard to the supposed case of smallpox on board the steamer Victoria, was published in the Argus on Monday. In reference to the complaints which have been made by the passengers of the P. and O. s.s. Victoria as to the course adopted by the officers of the Melbourne Board of Public Health in dealing with the vessel and those on board, it is contended by the latter that the measures adopted by them to prevent smallpox infection, although only of a partial character, were calculated to greatly reduce any risk there might be. They, of course, proceeded on the assumption that the member of the crew who had been ill had suffered from small pox; but, as special care had been taken to secure his isolation, and no fresh case had occurred, although he was convalescent, they deemed it unnecessary that the ship should be quarantined for the regular period. In their discretion, however, some precautionary measures were desirable, and so they gave orders for the luggage to be fumigated, and the passengers to be vaccinated. In regard to the vaccination, it is explained that if any passenger had caught the smallpox within a brief period the operation would be idle the disease. Opinions differ concerning the period during which vaccination can be performed so as to successfully protect a person after being successfully opposed to small-pox infection. Some medical men consider that as many as six days are covered. It is generally conceded that vaccination will certainly prevent the disease from developing when performed within 24 hours of infection. It must not, therefore, be supposed, the authorities point out, that if any person were infected the vaccination would be of no avail. The risk of infection by luggage is represented as being very small. The health authorities contend that the case was one in which they were called upon to exercise every reasonable precaution, and they adopted a course which reduced all risk to a minimum without putting passengers to a great deal of inconvenience. It is pointed out that the Public Health department of Victoria has no control over the actions of the health officers of another colony, and the fact of passengers having been allowed to land at Adelaide only shows the necessity for some federal system of quarantine, so that a uniform mode of procedure might be observed.

As announced in our advertising columns, the thirty-sixth annual general meeting of the Society for the Relief of Destitute Children will take place at the Asylum, Randwick, this afternoon, at 3 o'clock. The Mayor of Sydney has signified his intention to be present.

The Permanent Artillery Band will perform this afternoon in the Botanical Gardens. The programme appears in another column.

The Sydney Hospital report for the week ended 24th January is as follows:—admitted, 53; discharged, 63; died, 5; remaining, 244; casualties treated but not admitted, 611.

THE QUEENSLAND SEPARATION MOVEMENT.

[By Telegraph.]
(From our Correspondent.)

BRISBANE, Tuesday.

At the Mayoral luncheon of South Brisbane to-day, Mr. Tozer, in replying to the toast of "The Ministry," said that, in a speech delivered by him at Gympie the other day, he only expressed his own opinions about the sale of land, not those of the Ministry, but he was aware the views of those other members of the Ministry did not differ much from those he expressed. There was no likelihood of further taxation being put on the people. Mr. Cowley also spoke, and said he came down from the North an ardent separationist and would go back an ardent federationist. He believed Sir Samuel Griffith's scheme would meet all requirements of the colony admirably and tend to the general prosperity. He hoped the Southern people would see their way clear to give the scheme a fair, honest, and conscientious support. Referring to the condition of the sugar industry he said that, although apparently very successful and flourishing, it was simply trembling on the brink, and it depended entirely on the action of the present Government whether it continued or not. The Government believed they could devise a means which would be acceptable to the white people of the colony for carrying on the industry, and if it did this and nothing else, it would earn the gratitude of the people of Queensland. Alluding to the Canadian mail service via Vancouver, he said the Government were determined to do what they could to secure it.

A MELBOURNE TRAGEDY.

(From our Correspondent.)

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

Two letter-carriers off duty, standing at the corner of Elizabeth-street and Post Office-place about midnight, heard a number of larrikins a few yards off quarrelling. The letter-carriers laughed, when a larrikin accused the one of "barking" at him, and a fight ensued between him and a carrier, in which the latter had the best of it. The cry was raised, "The police are coming," and one of the letter-carriers, named Cameron, ran towards Swanston-street along Post Office-place. Nearing Swanston-street Cameron fell, when the larrikins who had followed overtook and commenced kicking him as he was on the ground. This was observed by a bystander, who heard Cameron call out, "Ted, stand by me, they have killed me," and running to where Cameron was lying, found him quite still, apparently dead. The police who at once arrived, removed Cameron to the hospital. On arrival he was dead. The cry of "Police" had evidently been used by the larrikins to divide the two men, and the ruse proved successful, as Edward Grady, Cameron's companion, then got separated from him. Cameron was 25 years of age. A man named Butler, locked up on a charge of drunkenness, is supposed to be implicated in the crime. A post-mortem on Cameron shows that he met his death by suffocation, a large piece of saveloy being found fixed in his throat. It is supposed that the exertion of the fight affected him in such a way as to cause him to vomit, and not having properly masticated some saveloy eaten during the evening, it got fixed in the throat. Three men, Henry Poole, Richard J. Butler, and Charles Richmond, appeared before the City Court to-day, charged with the murder of Cameron, and were remanded for a week.

LORD CARRINGTON ON AUSTRALIA.

PAPER AT THE COLONIAL INSTITUTE.

IMPERIAL FEDERATION.

THE DEFENCE OF AUSTRALIA.

REFERENCES TO SIR HENRY PARKES.

AUSTRALIAN NATIONALISM.

SPEECH BY THE PRINCE OF WALES.

[By Cable.]
(From our Correspondent.)

LONDON, Jan. 26.

Lord Carrington read his paper on Australia before the Colonial Institute to-day. In addition to Lord Carrington the guests included the Prince of Wales, the Earl of Granville, the Duke of Fife, Lord Knutsford, and Mr. James R. Fairfax. The hall was crowded.

In reading his paper Lord Carrington said that Imperial Federation was a beautiful and suggestive proposal, but in practice many difficulties would arise. It would be better to draw Australia to the old country by cords of love, leaving her otherwise to have her own way. The old system of interference in internal affairs should cease. The sentiment of Nationalism was strongly increasing. The movement was influenced by pressure from without, by the policy of Great Britain and by the varying independent actions of the colonies. The Chinese and the New Guinea questions were specially mentioned.

Referring to the question of Colonial Federation, Lord Carrington stated that he hoped Sir Henry Parkes would preside at the convention to be held in connection with the matter. His courage, eloquence, and statesmanship showed him to be a man born to shape the destinies of a young and growing country. Nationalism need not impair loyalty. When once Australian Federation was completed, England would have an easy task in influencing the national feeling in her favour. The colonists knew that England would regard the invasion of Australia in the same light as they would the landing of an enemy in Kent. England would aid Australia against a foreign foe, even if Canada objected; and, on the other hand, England would not wait the consent of Australia before sending, if required, cruisers flying the white flag to the Bay of Fundy, or to the Behring Sea, so as to enable colonists to feel that they belonged to the British community.

During the course of a reference to the Colonial Judges, Lord Carrington contended that representatives from them ought to be appointed on the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council, and the Chief Justices ought to receive life peerages. The title of Honourable, he asserted, ought to be recognised everywhere, and due precedence should be accorded to Governors, Bishops, and Judges. Statesmen should become Privy Councillors; the distinction of the order of St. Michael and St. George should not become a foreign title; but a colonial division ought to be created. He advised reciprocity between the English and colonial bar; and the extension of facility for the investment of trust funds. The debt of New South Wales was small compared with the vast wealth of the colony. Many private railway companies in England, with less mileage than the railways of New South Wales, had a larger capital and a greater debt than all Australia. In conclusion, he instanced the Soudan contingent, and the assistance given to the London dockers as cases of impulsive interference by the colonists with the struggles of the Empire.

Sir Henry Norman moved a vote of thanks to Lord Carrington, whose colonial experience would, he said, be of great value in the House of Lords. Referring to the question of the Australian defences, he said that they had progressed rapidly, and that both friends and enemies must take account of them.

Sir Saul Samuel, in seconding the motion, spoke of the love which Lord Carrington had won in the colonies, and instanced the sympathy he displayed in connection with the Bulli disaster and the Bourke floods.

Lord Knutsford, in proposing a vote of thanks to the Prince of Wales, agreed with everything in the paper excepting the prominence given to the Brisbane Courier's criticisms on the "crass incapacity" of the Colonial Office, and he also dwelt upon the Prince's ceaseless sympathy with and interest in the colonies.

Earl Granville seconded the motion.

The Prince of Wales, in returning thanks, said that he was very glad to welcome back the friend of a lifetime after his successful administration in New South Wales. The paper was most interesting. Though the colonies wished to be independent and free, he was glad that they remembered whence they came, and also that their interests were the same as those of Great Britain.

Jan. 27.

The Times, in commenting upon Lord Carrington's paper, insists that his expedients are not more tangible than Imperial Federation. The colonists, the Times thinks, are too reasonable to exhibit undignified ultra-sensitiveness, and Great Britain has no time to make a fuss about trivialities.

THE FEDERATION CONVENTION.

[By Telegraph.]
(From our Correspondent.)

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

When the representatives were elected for the Federation Convention, it was understood Mr. Wrixon was appointed on account of his official position as Attorney-General. The question has been raised since he ceased to hold office whether Mr. Wrixon would not be doing a graceful act if he retired in favour of Mr. Shiels. The Premier communicated with Mr. Wrixon through the Agent-General on the subject, but Mr. Wrixon declined to fall in with the proposal. The Government, therefore, will only be represented by the Premier, whilst the late Government, if it remained in office, would have had four of its members as delegates.

INTERCOLONIAL NEWS.

(From our Correspondents.)

VICTORIA.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

It is reported that Johnston is rapidly sinking. During the last two days he has only taken 2oz. of nourishment.

Edward Oxenborough Crofts, a resident of Sandhurst for 35 years, died suddenly at Sandhurst yesterday: it is supposed of heart disease.

A woman about 20 years of age and a boy about 7 were found dead last night alongside the railway, between Laverton and Werribee, on the Geelong line. It is supposed that they had fallen out of the evening train from Melbourne. Nothing was found to lead to their identification. The bodies have been identified as Ellen Scovell, single woman, and Arthur Potman, aged 7, both residents of Footscray. It appears that yesterday Potman went with other members of the family to South Beach, Williamstown, and in a spirit of mischief returned home in the afternoon. His mother, finding he had the railway tickets of the other members of the family with him, decided to send him back, but considering him too young to travel alone, asked Scovell to accompany him. Nothing more was known till they were found dead, but it is supposed they entered the wrong train, and finding out the mistake jumped out. Scovell's neck was broken.

Mr. J. Cosmo Newbery, acting under instructions from the Mining Department, has hit upon a process by which the brown coal of the colony can be compressed into briquettes of such density as to make it apparently quite equal to black coal. The Minister has given instructions for a sufficient quantity of coal to be treated, that a practical test may be made of its utility in that form. If satisfactory results are shown, the Government will give what assistance it can towards inaugurating the new industry.

The Governor to-day started on an unofficial trip into the country, to extend over the week. He will visit Bairnsdale, Bruthen, Omeo, and Bright.

QUEENSLAND.

BRISBANE, Tuesday.

A conference was held yesterday afternoon between two representatives each from the Master Bakers' Association, the Journeymen Bakers' Association, the Federated Employers' Union, and the Australian Labour Federation, for the purpose of endeavouring to settle the dispute which has arisen between the master bakers and the Journeymen Bakers' Associations in regard to the eight-hour question. The point in dispute is involved in the claim of the journeymen bakers to work on the eight-hour system, while the master bakers claim that the men should do a certain amount of work within that time if eight hours be taken as a day's work. After a considerable amount of discussion the conference adjourned till Monday afternoon without any decision being arrived at.

The Minister for Lands has received the following wire from Mr. A. Donaldson, superintendent of rabbit-proof fences, dated Hungerford, 24th instant:—"Paroo River: Highest flood here ever known; rabbit-proof fence completely covered; across river for over half mile am afraid rabbit-fence will be damaged at all rivers crossing it. Four inches of rain at Wonipah, fence damaged in several places, but was repaired at the earliest opportunity; have received no Queensland mails for nearly a fortnight." Instructions have been given to Mr. Donaldson to have all necessary repairs effected without delay. A telegram from Tambo states all the men engaged with Thomas Lewis and Co., dam makers, struck work. The men demanded the union rate of wages, work or no work. Mr. Lewis declined to pay this, but offered them the union rate per day when working, and rations, working or not.

It is rumoured that at Northampton Downs the general station hands have struck, wanting 30s per week when mustering elsewhere. Strike matters are very quiet.

The Weather Bureau issued the following this evening:—"Shipping interests advised that centre of deep barometric disturbance exists south from Hobart, and stormy conditions, with rough seas, will be met with during ensuing few days between Gabo, Hobart, and the Bluff in turn."

SOUTH AUSTRALIA.

ADELAIDE, Tuesday.

To-day the Secretary was interviewed by the members for the Northern Territory, who expressed a strong desire that the Executive Council would reprieve Spencer, charged with the murder of a native in the Northern Territory. Sir J. Bray said that the appeal would be dealt with by the Executive Council on Wednesday morning. The public are awaiting anxiously the result of the consideration of the Executive. There is a strong feeling that the verdict of wilful murder was brought in under a misapprehension, and that the death sentence will be commuted to a moderate term of imprisonment.

Replying to communications from Sir Henry Parkes, the Government state that the Minister for Education finds it difficult to leave Adelaide to attend the Postal Conference. They have therefore decided that Chief Secretary Bray, who is one of the delegates to the convention, will, with Mr. Todd, the Postmaster-General, represent this colony at the Postal and Telegraphic Conference.

The Minister has decided to run a weekly instead of a fortnightly mail to Birdsville.

William Hill, a young man, has been committed for trial at the police court on charges of housebreaking. The accused entered a house in South-terrace, stealing jewellery which he afterwards disposed of; and he also entered a house in Kent Town, stealing goods to the value of £100. In the first case prisoner pleaded guilty to receiving and selling property, knowing it to have been stolen.

Wm. Morgan, son of a baker at Renmark, was drowned last night near Renmark. He fell into the river while getting into a boat, and sank.

The Builders' and Contractors' Association present a satisfactory report for the past half year, and express a hope that a prosperous year is before all employers in the building trade.

Some members of the Commission, accompanied by the secretary, will leave by the afternoon express for Melbourne. Their intention is to take evidence regarding the working of the Victorian Post and Telegraph Departments with a view to comparing the system in the sister colony with that of South Australia. The Commission is at present engaged in inquiring into the administration of the South Australian post and telegraph offices.

The Minister of Education has declined to accede to the request of the Holdfast Bay Yacht Club that the forecasts of Mr. Clement Wragge, of Brisbane, might be published regularly in the colony.

Mr. Alfred Cellier, the composer of the opera "Dorothy," arrived by the Oroya. He has been suffering from nervous prostration for some months. It is unlikely that he will be able to appear before the Australian public, except perhaps in conducting a new opera which he might produce during his present visit. Mr. Cellier and Mr. B. C. Stephenson, who is a fellow passenger, and who wrote the libretto of "Dorothy," have completed an opera which they have brought with them, but whether they will produce it in Australia or not depends upon circumstances. If it is given it will be under the supervision of Messrs. Williamson and Garner, and Mr. Cellier will personally act as conductor.

TASMANIA.

LAUNCESTON, Tuesday.

There was a tremendous gale with high seas outside the Tamar Heads this morning. The ketch Florence Maud, a north-west coast trader, to Launceston, broke her mainmast, parted cable, and drifted to the three-mile beach. The tug Wybia went to her assistance, but the sea was too rough to get near to rescue the crew who were in the rigging and in great danger. The crew eventually got to land, and were received at the pilot station. The Wairarapa, from New Zealand, arrived at Hobart to-day, and brought a large number of men, the first consignment for the work on the Mount Zeehan railway.

THE TREATY QUESTION.

ACTION BY THE VICTORIAN PREMIER.

[By Telegraph.]
(From our Correspondent.)

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

With regard to the cablegram published on Monday to the effect that the claim of Victoria to make separate treaties with foreign Powers was outside the combined instructions given the Agents-General by colonial Governments, it has occurred to Mr. Munro that it would be a great advantage if the Australian colonies had power to enter into a similar arrangement. He consulted the Queensland and Tasmanian Premiers on the subject. Mr. Fysh agreed with Mr. Munro, but Sir Samuel Griffith did not care to commit himself without taking the advice of his colleagues. As the outcome of the deliberations, Mr. Munro has sent the following cablegram to Sir G. Berry:—"Agents-General action is approved by Sir Samuel Griffith, Mr. Fysh, and myself, also your despatch of the 14th November. We consider the existing arrangements for enabling the colonies to adhere to not generally satisfactory treaties without that cause should be terminated early. Further than this however, Mr. Fysh and myself are inclined to go. We feel that the colonies should, for the purposes of commerce, be authorised to treat with the Powers direct. This is a matter of importance. For example, America and other markets could be obtained for wool. As the renewal of treaties is under consideration, inquire if there is an insuperable obstacle, if not press on committee."

OPENING OF THE NEW ZEALAND PARLIAMENT.

THE GOVERNOR'S SPEECH.

[By Telegraph.]
(From our Correspondent.)

AUCKLAND, Tuesday.

The Parliament was formally opened by the Governor to-day. His speech stated that Ministers proposed making an exhaustive inquiry into the financial condition of the colony, in order to submit proposals framed with due regard to economy without impairing the efficiency of the public service. It was also proposed to submit a measure dealing with the administration of public lands and measures which, they trust, would improve the relations of labour to capital, and promote industrial progress. It was also believed the Department of Agriculture could be made productive and of great practical utility, without entailing unnecessary additional cost. The Ministers considered earnest attention should be given to the development of the mineral resources of the colony. The speech intimated that after a suitable recess these and other important measures would be submitted to Parliament.

A deputation of 20 members of Parliament waited on the Premier, asking for the reinstatement of men dismissed by the Railway Commissioners during the strike, and recognition by the latter of the Railway Servants' Union. Mr. Ballance promised to accede to the requests of the deputation so far as the Government has power.

THE GOULBURN PRESBYTERY.

[By Telegraph.]
(From our Correspondent.)

GOULBURN, Tuesday.

At a meeting of the Presbytery of Goulburn yesterday, a letter from the clerk of the Sydney Presbytery was received, complaining of the action of the Rev. Francis Slade, minister, of Goulburn Presbytery, in allowing Mr. A. Gardiner to lecture on behalf of his (Mr. Slade's) congregation and moving a vote of sympathy with Mr. Gardiner, which the Presbytery affirms casts a slur upon its action. Mr. Slade was heard in explanation of his action, after which a motion was carried that the Presbytery, having heard Mr. Slade, considers his explanation satisfactory, inasmuch as he disclaims any intention of casting a slur upon the Presbytery of Sydney, and regrets that the resolution complained of was mis-interpreted. At the same time the Presbytery of Goulburn deems the action of Mr. Slade complained of unwise under the circumstances, and that a copy of this minute be sent to the Sydney Presbytery. Mr. Slade, after the carrying of the above resolution, intimated that he wished to present a petition bearing on the same case. He gave the salient points of the petition, which was signed by about 30 persons, and wished to read it; but the Moderator ruled the petition out of order under article 68 of the code of rules. At Mr. Slade's request his dissent from the ruling was entered on the minutes. Mr. Slade gave notice that he would at the next meeting move an overture to the General Assembly to have certain articles in the code altered.

ANNIVERSARY DAY IN THE COUNTRY.

(From our Correspondents.)

ARMIDALE, Tuesday.

Yesterday, Anniversary Day, was observed as a close holiday. A great many picnics and foot races on the Showground were the only attractions. The annual races next week promise to be a great success. There are large nominations, and extensive preparations are being made.

BRAIDWOOD, Tuesday.

The holiday yesterday passed off quietly. All business places remained closed. A rifle match was shot on the range between a team from Moss Vale and a local team, and was won by the latter by 34 points. The total scores were: Moss Vale 401, and Braidwood 435, the conditions being 10 men a-side, and seven shots at 500 and 600 yards range. A cricket match, played between Bungendore and Braidwood teams for the Muriel Challenge Cup resulted in a win for Bungendore by seven wickets. MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS.

The returning officer for the municipality of North Sydney, Mr. F. Punch, has received the following 17 nominations for the six aldermanic vacancies which are about to occur:—Messrs. W. R. Blackstone, M. Charlton, A. W. Green, T. W. Hodgson, G. T. Clarke, J. Waterhouse, T. Waterhouse, W. Waterhouse, A. Eaton, S. Blue, and F. Smith (retiring aldermen), and Messrs. J. Urquhart, G. Phillips, W. Anderson, G. Waite, W. Wormald, and H. Tubman. The nominations for auditors, of whom two are to be elected, are:—Messrs. N. Dowling, T. Gilfillan, J. Crowley, W. Willington, W. H. M'Lean, W. J. Slack, R. Patrick, and W. H. Parry.

Two of the retiring aldermen of North Sydney, Aldermen Blackstone and G. T. Clarke, addressed the electors last evening. Alderman Blackstone spoke from the balcony of Cranny's Hotel, Blue's Point. Alderman M. M'Mahon took the chair. The candidate, who had a good hearing, dwelt upon the necessity for a new town hall in the centre of the borough, preferably near to the local post office. He said he had moved to that effect in the council. He had, he stated, voted in favour of lighting the borough by electricity, and had advocated the raising of a loan with which to carry out necessary works. He had supported the project for the extension of the tramway to Middle Head, and had deprecated the pollution of the public reserve. Regarding the treatment of refuse, &c., he favoured the erection of crematory works. On the motion of Alderman Robinson, seconded by Alderman Matthews, a vote of confidence in the candidate was passed. Alderman Clarke addressed the ratepayers from a balcony in West-street, near Holterman-street. His meeting was presided over by Mr. E. M'Kay. The candidate was interrupted a great deal in the course of his speech, but he nevertheless covered the ground which he had set himself to. He claimed to have been a faithful representative of the old Belmore Ward, saying that he had attended almost every meeting of the council since the date of his election; he did not think he had been absent more than six meetings during the whole of the three years. He claimed to have had a number of works carried out in the ward, and, in reply to his critics, quoted the fact that Rome was not built in a day. Up to August last, when the accounts of the borough were prepared, upwards of £7000 had been expended in the ward, and this amount was about £300 in excess of the revenue derived from it.

Notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather, a largely-attended public meeting of the ratepayers of Scarborough Ward, Rockdale, was held at Linke's Pavilion, Sandringham, last Saturday evening. Mr. Samuel Schofield presided. Mr. S. A. Beehag, B.A., solicitor, addressed the meeting, and dealt exhaustively with all matters concerning the municipality, and was accorded a unanimous vote of confidence, which was proposed by Mr. Pritchard, one of the members of the local progress committee.

The Parramatta municipal elections are not exciting much attention, and two wards, if not three, will not be contested. Alderman Dixon will be unopposed in Marsden Ward; and Alderman Dellow, the retiring representative of Forest Ward, will go in again unopposed. In Gore Ward, Messrs. F. C. Cox and D. M'Neill have been nominated; but it is questionable whether the latter's nomination is in order. In all probability the only contest will be in Anderson Ward, where the retiring alderman (R. A. Ritchie) will be strongly opposed by Mr. J. W. Withers, an ex-alderman. The fight between these two gentlemen for supremacy is likely to be very keen. Alderman Brodie, who retires from Gore Ward, has been nominated as an auditor. On Monday evening Alderman Ritchie addressed a meeting in support of his candidature, and passed some severe strictures on the ruling powers of the council, claiming that nearly every motion he had brought forward had been baulked. He criticised the erection of the public baths as a "white elephant," and urged that the matter of a comprehensive sewerage system should be at once adopted. He also favoured the idea of connecting the town with the Nepean water supply.

Alderman Andrew Eaton, who is seeking re-election at the hands of the ratepayers of the municipality of North Sydney, will open his campaign this evening. Particulars will be seen on reference to our advertising columns.

For Homebush, Messrs. William Von der Heyde and Albert Moon have been nominated as aldermen, and Messrs. Horace Allard and Fredk. Percy Ford as auditors. There will thus be no contested election.

For the Wingham Municipality, Messrs. John Pollock and William Fotheringham are the retiring aldermen, who are seeking re-election. The other nominated candidates are Messrs. Francis Dennes, John Lewis, and George Flemming.

In response to a requisition signed by 77 ratepayers, Mr. Gerard Phillips has re-considered his decision not to offer himself for re-election as an alderman of North Sydney. He will therefore come forward as a candidate, and his address to the electors of the borough will be found in another portion of this issue.

A SAD CASE.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

NEWCASTLE, TUESDAY.

Francis C. South, formerly a barrister in New Zealand, was arrested last night for stealing a watch from the shop of Frank Pearce, Hunter-street, Newcastle, on Saturday night last. When placed before the Bench this morning he behaved very violently, defying the Bench and disturbing the court. Eventually he was sent back to the cells for an hour. The prisoner is evidently well educated, and appears to be suffering from the effects of drinking. The evidence showed that the prisoner was caught redhanded with the watch in his possession sworn to by the prosecutor as his property. Prisoner denied all recollection of the affair, and elected to be tried by a jury. He stated he had been already proved to be insane and had been in nine asylums during the last three years. He was committed for trial at the Maitland Quarter Sessions on the 9th day of March next.

PUPIL TEACHERS IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Will you kindly permit me to be one of those to whom you afford space in your columns to "air grievances." I have for some time been impressed with the fact that the tests to which the pupil teachers in our public schools are subjected at their examinations may, in the rigid manner in which they are acted upon, prove a great hardship, and to me it seems a great injustice, in many cases. Mine is, of course, a personal grievance, but it is doubtless one of a number of others. In my daughter's case, failure after six months' intense application, denying herself all evening recreations which the young need occasionally, and giving up even needful hours of sleep. Why, when the children leave school there are lessons for the teachers until nearly 6; then as soon as the evening meal is over there are the subjects for the distant or near examinations to be studied, often until 11 at night. All this is cheerfully done, buoyed up with hope of (in her case) almost certain success. She has passed in all subjects but history. The range of subjects may have been large so that some point may have escaped the memory. So for this one imperfection a girl of otherwise excellent capabilities of teaching must be subject to the mortification of its being known (even in the school in which she teaches) that she has "failed." It is a stigma, though often undeserved; and then there is the waiting another whole year for the trifling increase of salary. The effect on some minds is to produce a feeling of hopelessness, for by the same rule the next examination may be a failure.

I knew a case in England of a similar kind to mine. The mother went to the board, and said that sooner than her daughter should wait any longer for an increased income, after some years of successful teaching, just for some slight failure in her examination, she should remove her and let her enter domestic service. In her case it was found that a wrong paper had been sent to her daughter, and she gained the increase. When I see the immense number of offers in the papers to general servants of 18s per week, with board and lodging, I feel inclined to think that it is better to do such work than to slave mentally and bodily for 12s per week. Of course, where the friends of the pupil-teachers are in good positions it is not so serious pecuniarily, but there is the assumed disgrace after having toiled so uselessly.

The decisions of the council are of Medan and Persian irrevocability, but I can humbly hope that in due time an enlightenment on some points may come in the working of a system which justly claims admiration in many respects.

I am, &c.,

The African continent has now been traversed 13 times from either side. The first to accomplish this was Livingstone, who was followed by the Portuguese, Silva Porto, in 1873 by Cameron, in 1874 by Stanley, in 1877 by Major Serpa Pinto, in 1880 by the Italian Matteuci, in 1881 by Captain Wissman and the Scotchman Arnott, who traversed from east to west. Again in 1884 by two Portuguese, Ivens and Capello, and the Austrian D. Lenz; 1885 by the agent of the Congo State, Lieutenant Gleerup. Since then Stanley and Wissman have made a second journey, and since the former's return the French Captain Trivier.

THE WEATHER.

AN EXCESSIVELY HOT DAY.

A VESSEL DISMASTED BY LIGHTNING.

It was warm on Anniversary Day, but there was a nice breeze from the north-east to temper the heat and render life, so to speak, endurable. It was warm, seasonable weather during the day, but a change took place after sundown. As will be remembered a southerly squall passed to the north-west of the city. Wollongong and Kiama reported a southerly burster, and there was a good deal of lightning between 10 and 11 p.m. A few drops of rain fell in the metropolis, but only a few, and the threatened bad weather gave place to a light westerly air, which at daybreak had drawn into the N.W., and all day yesterday blew from that quarter a thorough hot wind. The temperature did not come up to that scorching Friday, the 9th of this month, when to escape from the glare of the sun was to seek relief in the shade, with the temperature at 98 degrees—a very unsatisfactory alternative. The maximum shade temperature yesterday was, says Mr. H. C. Russell, 95·7, about two degrees less than the hottest day this summer, and it was hot everywhere in the colony. At Brewarrina 103· in the shade, Wilcannia 105½·, and a good many places close upon 100·. Towards 3 p.m. there were indications in the far west of the colony of an approaching change. All day yesterday Victoria was having a cool and showery from west to S.W., strong winds, and at the hour just mentioned a southerly change was reported on the Darling at Wilcannia, and in that locality. Last night along the New South Wales coast, the wind was light N.E. from the Richmond down almost to Port Stephens, and from Newcastle to Gabo, it was westerly to S.W. fresh. A change to a cool southerly breeze would be heartily appreciated after such a day as yesterday, and there were pleasant indications of the wind drawing into that quarter at midnight. Rain fell at a few places during Monday night and early yesterday morning. Young received 41 points. Carcoar 20 points, Cowra 15, and Bowral 19 points. but yesterday afternoon's weather telegrams are that it was then fine all over the colony. Last night Newcastle reported it blowing a strong westerly, and a thunderstorm occurred there during the afternoon. The storm was accompanied by continuous and vivid lightning, one flash of which struck a vessel's masts and shattered them into splinters. The vessel is the Isle of Erin now loading coal at the Dyke for Valparaiso, under engagement by Messrs. J. and A. Brown. Whilst loading operations were temporarily in suspense, owing to the violence of the thunderstorm, a frightful flash of lightning terrified all on board. The Isle of Erin, now rigged as a barque, was formerly an iron ship, one of Henderson's Clyde-built vessels, and owned by Bushby, of Liverpool. She is in command of Captain Inkster, and took a general cargo to Newcastle from London direct, arriving about the middle of last month. As will be gathered from this account the vessel, which is close on 1000 tons register, is powerfully built, and it was with profound astonishment those on board witnessed the demolition of her lofty spars. The lightning struck her fore and main royalmast, and, our correspondent says, carried them away. There was no injury sustained by the crew, but the accident happening to a ship lying snug in a safe port, after battling through many wild tempests during the 15 years she has sailed the seas, is a novel one.

A telegram from Launceston reports a furious gale off Tamar Heads yesterday. A ketch named the Florence Maud drove ashore, and the crew had a narrow escape. They clung to the rigging and a tug, the Wybia, put off to their assistance. A tremendous sea was breaking over the craft, and the tug could not approach with safety. Eventually they were rescued and landed, at the pilot station. The vessel is owned by Mr. A. Mitchell, of Tamar River. She is 23 tons register, and was built at Launceston in 1887.

TRADES MOVEMENTS.

TRADES COUNCIL EXECUTIVE.

The Executive Committee of the Trades and Labour Council, at a meeting held at the Trades Hall last evening, decided to recommend the council to appoint a deputation to wait upon the Minister for Public Instruction to point out the manner in which the Education Act is being violated in this colony by the employment in factories, &c., of boys and girls under the age of 14 years. It was resolved to suggest that the Council should give its support to the wharf labourers in their endeavours to induce the free labourers to become unionists, and that the mass meeting of the wharf labourers to be held on Monday next should be called under the auspices of the council. The receipt was announced of the sum of £14 15s 6d from the Amalgamated Carpenters towards the support of the Illawarra miners.

FARRIERS.

The Journeymen Farriers' Union called a meeting of non-union employers for last evening at the Swan-with-Two-Necks Hotel, for the purpose of inducing them to employ union labour only, and to grant the benefits of the eight-hour system. It was pointed out that the union men worked only eight hours daily, whereas the majority of the non-unionists worked 12 hours per day, and it was the wish of the union that the employers should advise their employees to join the union and to reduce the working hours to eight. Nothing definite was decided upon owing to the small attendance; but arrangements were made for another meeting.

TAILORS.

The journeymen tailors last night decided to recommend the following proposals for adoption by the Intercolonial Trades Unions' Congress, to be held in March next at Ballarat:—1. "That all Government contracts for clothing be executed under strict Government supervision, and not sub-let to sweaters." 2. "That any Workshops and Factories Act would be incomplete without the insertion of a clause providing for the establishment of a domestic workshop."

OMNIBUS EMPLOYEES.

With a view to resuscitating the Omnibus Employees' Union, a meeting of drivers, &c., was held on Anniversary Day outside the Randwick racecourse. Mr. P. Strong (Trades and Labour Council) occupied the chair, and all the other members of the council organising committee were present. About 40 employees attended. After addresses had been delivered by Messrs. R. M'Kilop, F. Flowers, Wilson, and Boxall, a resolution was passed to the effect that those present pledged themselves to reorganise the omnibus employees for their protection and mutual benefit. A committee was appointed consisting of two employees from each stable for the purpose of canvassing for members. Mr. Wilson was appointed secretary pro tem.

DISMISSAL OF MR. HOYLE.

The Railway and Tramway Service Association called a meeting for last evening at the Carrington Hall, Castlereagh-street, with reference to the dismissal by the Railway Commissioners of Mr. H. C. Hoyle because of his connection with political parties. Mr. Mannell occupied the chair, and about 150 employees of the service were present. It was, after some discussion, decided that, as the meeting was a small and by no means representative one, owing to a large number of the members not having received summonses, the meeting be adjourned until a date to be determined upon by the committee.

The Plumbers met last evening for the purpose of completing arrangements for a trade picnic to take place at Clontarf in March.

The auxiliary branch of the Amalgamated Engineers last evening discussed the action of the Railway Commissioners in the dismissal of Mr. Hoyle, but no resolution was arrived at.

PROPOSED COBAR-COCKBURN RAILWAY.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—As so much depends on the wise management and judicious extension of the railway system of this colony, I desire to place on record a word of protest against the proposed line from Cobar to Cockburn, on the South Australian border. This line I purpose showing cannot be justified either on the grounds of necessity or of economic expediency. New South Wales is already well provided with main lines, which now only require circuit feeders or district branch extensions. Then, again, New South Wales has already expended ample capital in building lines from which no adequate return can reasonably be looked for for some years—lines, the construction of which can only be justified by the need which existed for doing something towards the pioneering work of opening up and settling the country. For example, the Narrandera-Hay and Jerilderie railways, and Wallerawang-Mudgee. This is one cogent reason against the contemplated scheme.

In the second place, some regard must be had to the dangerous tendency the proposed new line would have to divert legitimate New South Wales trade to the South Australian seaboard. On behalf of the scheme it is contended that a main line should connect Sydney with Adelaide: but at what cost? Simply at the cost of all trade west of the Darling, and much of the trade to the eastward of that stream, which would gravitate by natural law to South Australian ports. These ports are the natural ports of the Barrier district, and nothing that we can do will ever deprive them of that trade. The distance from Broken Hill to Sydney is 735 miles, and from Broken Hill to Port Pirie 254 miles. Ergo, a line to the South Australian border makes increased trade for South Australia—and that, too, at the expense of New South Wales, who proposes the construction of this suicidal line. Moreover, the line itself would never earn interest on the outlay involved. There is no population whatever, save at Wilcannia; the land is absolutely unfit for settlement, and is only capable of growing wool; and the only benefit derivable from such a railway would accrue to a few squatters.

Another consideration is the enormous cost of a Cobar-Cockburn railway; this involves the bridging of the Darling, which, in view of last year's floods, would cost a [illegible] sum, and it is certain that the Minister's estimate would be largely exceeded.

One final thought and I have done. We are hearing daily of Australian federation, but how is it to be brought about while intercolonial breaks of gauge exist? Obviously one uniform gauge must be adopted in the early future. The Victorian gauge (5ft. 3in.), being that most favoured by modern railway engineering experts, will most likely be selected, and federation would thus involve the reconstruction of all trunk lines. Why, then, build another line on principles which will soon be obsolete?

Let us by all means have the line to Wilcannia, but the suggested railway to the South Australian border is too absurdly utopian to commend itself to any sane man.

I am, &c.,

MEETINGS.

THE ROYAL COMMISSION ON STRIKES.

A meeting of the Royal Commission appointed to investigate and report upon the causes of conflicts between capital and labour, known as strikes, and the best means of preventing or mitigating the disastrous consequences of such occurrences, was held in the Queensland-offices, Bridge-street, yesterday afternoon. There were present—Dr. Garran, M.L.C. (president), Messrs. J. H. Storey, L. Beeston, H. Hudson, J. Hennett, C. F. Stokes, T. M. Davis, F. Cotton, J. R. Talbot, J. Finch, J. Curley, M.L.A., H. E. Dickinson, B. Goode, and T. J. Houghton.

Mr. Alexander Wilson was further examined, the examination being conducted by Mr. Davis. He said that, taking the average for the past six years, the squatters were very much worse off during that period than they were previously; no station or no sound business of any kind could afford to pay 15 per cent. interest; the greatest amount he had heard of being paid as interest was about 10 or 12 years ago, when there was a great crisis owing to the Bank of New South Wales, having the whole of the Government account, affairs were upset, and for a short time some paid 10 per cent.; no sound financial institution carrying on a legitimate business would charge 15 per cent; he did not think it was the small pastoralists who required the assistance from the banks; after the experience of the last strike the pastoralists would be very careful in making agreements with the shearers; he was not prepared to say that it was not possible to work out a federated agreement, as labour was federated, and capital was to a certain extent, but the outlook was not very promising at the present time; he thought it was quite easy for an agreement to be made, but the keeping of it was another matter; he did not think a bond would be any use, but at the present time a bond could not be enforced; the idea of the bond was a good one, if there was machinery to enforce the payment of the bond; of course, the deposit of money was the best bond for the carrying out of an agreement; a thousand difficulties would crop up before they threshed the matter out; the discipline of the unions was great, and the men would put up with a great deal more, and the leaders would be able to get the men to do more, than the Employers' Union would; the men had not so much to lose and were more easily compensated than the masters; he was opposed to fully recognising the union or the employers engaging all union men; he was afraid of the Shearers' Union getting all the power in their hands; his objection was to the union and its organisation; it was not through fear, but it was their treatment; there was no objection to the men; he intended to try and go along without the unions; he had never had any fight with the union—he had only said that he would have nothing to do with it; he had a notice sent him threatening his employees; the Shearers' Union had interfered with his business and other people's business in a way no man could stand; the Shearers' Union particularly had taken such modes of protecting themselves that no man of independence, unless he was driven into a corner, would have any dealings with them; he made that statement deliberately; that was for the last two years to which he referred.

To Mr. Curley: Notices had been sent to him during the last two years which were of a monstrous character; the carters who were engaged to cart his wool were threatened that, if they carried the wool, they would find their horses missing some day; he received the following notice in July last:—"Young Federal Labour Council, Young, N.S.W., July 17, 1890. To the manager Flyers Creek Station. Dear Sir,—Owing to the determined opposition displayed by a section of the pastoralists to the principles of our society, it has been decided by the united trades and labour organisations of the colonies that no wool shorn or carried during the ensuing season by non-union labour will be handled by members of any affiliated union society. Had not our rules and agreements been approved of and adopted by all but a very small minority of sheepowners and other employers in Australasia, thus proving our demands were equitable, such extreme measures as now decided upon would not have been taken. Those who now combat our aims do so on the question of unionism versus non-unionism, and we have determined at any cost to assert our right to combine, which principle is in danger so long as employers use systematic efforts to crush unionism by the employment of non-union labour. Hence the reason for the position taken up by the workers of the colonies. To reach those employers above referred to we have been compelled to make our resolution somewhat sweeping, and as there may still be some pastoralists to whom our objects have not been properly represented, we think it only right to communicate with you, our object being to make a settlement of differences possible without the friction inseparable from the practical application of the resolution anent the handling of non-union cut or carted wool. We place no restrictions on shearers, carriers, or others wishing to become members of any of the respective societies by which their particular occupation is protected, the payment of the entrance fee and contributions for the current year to entitle shearers to full benefits of the A. S. U. amounting to 20s each, carriers 20s also. If you will kindly write us on this matter (within a week, if possible) you will materially assist in promoting that good feeling which it is desirable should be inculcated between employers and the trade organisations above named. We have, &c., yours faithfully, G. A. CRANFIELD, President; J. M. TOOMEY, Secretary." He knew that previous to the late strike stations in the hands of large companies had agreed to shear under union rules; he had had many differences with his men, and having talked the matter over in some cases he had given in; if he was approached in a reasonable way he would consider the matter; he had had his men stolen away, and then told to come down; notices had been posted to him for the past three years from various quarters; he had never asked a man who sought employment whether he belonged to the union or not; he had never made any statement to his manager, or instructed him not to take on a union man, even up to this year; as long as a man would shear under the station agreement he was employed; he had never seen the pastoralists combined in a way that was worth anything; in small communities the employers conferred; at the present time the pastoralists were far from perfect in their organisation, and time would show how long the association would last.

James Doyle, wharfinger to the A. U. S. N. Company, examined by Mr. Beaton, said that previously he was wharfinger to the A. S. N. Company; there had been many disputes with the men; there seemed to be something behind; the men did not act as they should to their employers; vigilance-officers frequently came round to inquire into disputes; he employed a number of constant men up to seven weeks before the strike; they were excellent men, and were well satisfied with the wages, which was 7s 6d a day of 10 hours and eight hours on Saturday; he had no difficulty in getting good men; he always had a number of men wishing to get permanent employment; there was a difference in the quality of the men; he made complaints to the union, but got no redress; he could have picked out better men who did not belong to the union, but he was not allowed to employ them; the union objected to constant men being employed; steamers were at the wharf every day, and it was of the greatest moment to have constant men employed; the unions said that the work could be more evenly distributed if the constant staff was done away with, and to meet the views of the union the constant men were dismissed; they did a lot of coaling; the men knocked off if it rained, and sometimes when it rained only slightly; steamers had been delayed in starting in consequence of this.

To Mr. Davis: When they were slack, which was a rare occasion, he knocked the men off for half a day and then frequently at the request of the men; he thought 24s or 26s might be earned by casual labour on his company's wharf; but this might not have been all that these men earned, they might be engaged on other wharves; during the late strike he employed a large number of free labourers; there never was a strike of free labourers on his wharf; the men who worked during the strike were contented, and even glad to get the work; the men he employed now were taken from the Free Labour Bureau; the system worked fairly well; he got fairly good men; he had a large staff of constant men now, and they were paid 45s a week; he scarcely thought a system of co-operation would be workable; it would tend to cause monopoly and at any time the union could stop the boats; every man would want to be a master, and every man would think he had a better way of doing the work; there would always be disagreements; he doubted whether the men would be better off under a system of co-operation.

To Mr Hudson: The work now was carried on with less trouble than before the strike; he felt no apprehension of trouble now with the men; it was not his experience that a stevedore employing 100 men made a profit of £40 to £50 a week; that was a fallacious idea.

To Mr. Houghton: For years he made up the stevedoring account of vessels; he understood that the London dockers were instituting a system of co-operations; he recognised no union men now; his company paid the constant men their wages direct; no man had refused to work for him since he had employed free labour.

To Mr. Talbot: He had had 20 to 22 years' experience of wharf labouring in Sydney; 20 years ago he thought casual men were getting 9d per hour; there was a little grumbling among the free labourers during the strike, but he did not know that they went out on strike; if the unions were done away with he thought there would be no strikes; the men might have asked for concessions, but if they were refused them they did not knock off work; men were worth a shilling an hour.

The Commission adjourned until Thursday next.

THE PROPOSED RESUMPTION OF MOORE-STREET.

A meeting called by Mr. J. Mason "for an expression of opinion with regard to Moore-street Improvement Bill," was held in the vestibule of the Town Hall last night. The proceedings were announced to commence at 8 o'clock sharp, but after some time had elapsed, the convener ascended the platform and took charge of the meeting, there being about 60 people present.

Mr. MASON said that he had been promised by certain gentlemen that they would attend, and that by one of them that he would take the chair. No chairman had arrived, and he did not feel in a position to carry out the meeting without a chairman. He would explain the intention he had in calling the meeting, and would then adjourn it if no chairman arrived. The ratepayers took so little interest in their own affairs, and it was no affair of his. If they had been all oppositionists present, it would show that there was an opinion in the city. Surely they had not deteriorated to such a miserable state that they dare not express an opinion on this question. As no chairman had arrived he would have the minutes read of a preliminary meeting which was almost as heartbreaking as the present one.

The minutes were then read.

Mr. MASON then said that there appeared to be no life in the city on this question except in those who were what he described as "on the job." He was in some hopes that some little degree of patriotic spirit would be shown in the city. There was not a ratepayer in the city that would object to see the city beautified, but were they to rob one half of the city, which they must do if they were to localise the money in the small street called Moore-street? Where did it lead to, and where were the assets for this extraordinary charge which would be made for the resumption of some bricks and mortar that were now lying there in the way? Did they believe it was fair that the outlying city that was being made by such rapid strides, should be taxed to support the resumption of Moore-street? He objected to further taxation. Mr. Mason then went on from his explanation to deal with the question, and spoke in opposition to the proposed resumption by the council. His remarks were chiefly received humourously, and there were frequent interjections advising him to keep it up, and intimating that he was doing very well. He then reverted again to the "want of patriotic spirit in the citizens," and after stating that the man who promised him to do a thing (referring to the chairman), and did not do so, was worse than an enemy, he said that he had done his duty as a citizen, and he would proceed no further with the meeting.

Mr. Mason, however, sat down in the chair placed for the chairman, and had the resolutions read which were to have been proposed. He was then about to leave when Mr. R. B. Cropley approached the platform, and claimed the right as a citizen to move a motion.

Mr. Mason inquired in what way, and, on learning that the motion was in favour of resuming Moore-street, said he would not allow it to be put, as no amendment could be moved to a resolution that had not been proposed.

Interruption ensued for some minutes, the meeting desiring to hear Mr. Cropley.

Mr. CROPLEY then proposed a resolution against the resumption, and proceeded to speak against that resolution, stating that the citizens had been urged to protest and had not done so. In fact, a large meeting of citizens had decided in favour of it by a unanimous vote. He concluded by moving a motion in favour of the resumption of the street.

Mr. FRANK COTTON seconded the proposition, and said that the Act contained a valuable principle and should receive their support.

Mr. JOHN NORTON, who had entered the hall late, ascended the platform and sat beside the chairman. He was the next speaker, and informed the meeting that they did not come to protest against improving Moore-street at all, but to protest against the action of "a nominee chamber" in altering the bill passed by the Legislative Council, so as to confine its scope to Moore-street. He moved, as an amendment, "That the principle embodied in the Moore-street Improvement Bill should be extended to the whole of the metropolis, as provided and enacted by the Legislative Assembly in the bill sent up to the Legislative Council, and this meeting hereby expresses its condemnation of that body naming the bill and rendering it abortive, so far as the main body of the ratepayers and citizens are concerned."

Mr. R. F. NORMAN seconded the amendment, and said that they could vote against the Upper House with safety at any time, because when that House put its hand to anything it was against the interests of the workers.

During the discussion the chairman was informed that he had no right to constitute himself chairman, and after some interruption a motion was carried electing him.

The CHAIRMAN put the amendment and declared it carried. Another discussion ensued as to the fate of the motion, the chairman insisting that it was lost, while a section of the meeting wanted to carry it in addition to the one which the chairman said was carried.

After some time, the CHAIRMAN said that, to please them, he would put the original motion; but, before he did so, it was proposed that he should leave the chair, and he did so.

Mr. JOHN NORTON proposed a vote of thanks to the chairman, which he declared carried amid cheers and groans—the latter preponderating.

The chairman then left the chair and another chairman was elected. An attempt was then made to continue the proceedings, but disorder prevailed, and the lights being turned off the gathering dispersed.

WATER AND SEWERAGE BOARD.

A meeting of the Water and Sewerage Board was held in the offices of the board, Pitt and Park streets, yesterday afternoon. Present:—Mr. Howe, president (in the chair), Messrs. B. B. Palmer, vice-president, R. R. Hickson, C. W. Darley, G. W. Lander, J. D. Young, and J. Graham. The secretary's report showed that during the past week 23 hydrants had been fixed by the board's operatives, and 32 had been regulated for main laying. The receipts amounted to £1053 16s, making a total of £3265 19s 2d for the month up to the 24th instant. During the week 1 mile 1014 yards of piping had been laid. A communication was received from the Works Department, stating that the tender of Mr. P. Hill, for the erection of new offices for the board, had been accepted, at a cost of £28,990, the work to be completed within 18 months. An application was read from the contractor for main-laying in King-street city, asking the board to pay him the cost of tunnelling under George-street. A return showing the list of streets in which it is proposed to lay water mains was submitted, and adopted. On the report of the engineer, it was resolved that the sum of £20 should be paid to Mr. Bennett, for injury done to his property in Spicer-street, Woollahra.

The Protection and Political Reform League of New South Wales held its fortnightly meeting in the Temperance Hall last evening. The president (Mr. R. C. Luscombe) occupied the chair. The secretary reported that he had already sent away 100 copies of the annual report, and was preparing to send off large numbers more. The president stated that at the next meeting he would place before members proposals for the protection campaign for the year, and if possible call a public meeting during the coming fortnight. Some accounts of the league were passed for payment, and the league adjourned.

The annual meeting of the Grand United Order of Oddfellows, Sydney district, was held on Thursday evening last at their hall, Castlereagh-street, when delegates from 32 lodges, the officers of the district, and several visitors, including Bro. J. M'Cubben, Grand Secretary, were present. The meeting was opened by the District Master, Bro. J. Hagan, Bro. Geo. H. Sands occupying the deputy chair. The annual report was read by the district secretary, Bro. S. M. Stenbhom, a summary of which shows the numerical strength to be 3853, being 260 more than last year. During the year three new lodges have been established, viz., the Federal at Woolloomooloo, the Hope of Canterbury at Canterbury, and the M'Cubben at East Maitland. The finances show a balance to the funeral fund of £5734 12s 4d after paying £913 for deaths during the year, and the sick fund shows a balance of £376 13s 11d. After resolutions adopting the report and balance sheets were submitted, the election of officers for the ensuing year was proceeded with, and the following were elected:—District Master, Bro. Geo. H. Sands; Deputy District Master, Bro. D. Sinfield; District Treasurer, Bro. Geo. Brown; District Trustees, Bros. J. G. Moon and J. Hagan; District Secretary, Bro. J. M. Stenbhom.

FREE TRADE AND LIBERAL ASSOCIATION.

RESIGNATION OF THE SECRETARY.

At a meeting of the council of the Free Trade and Liberal Association, held last night, the president (Mr. Goodlet) in the chair, the following letter from Mr. Pulsford was read:—"Sydney, January 27, 1891. To the President and Councils of the Free Trade and Liberal Association. Dear Sir,—I have the honour to inform you that I have decided to forthwith resign the position of secretary of the Free Trade and Liberal Association. In tendering my resignation I desire to express my thanks for the consideration that has always been extended to me, and for the confidence that has been reposed in me from the formation of the association in August, 1885. I have two reasons for taking this course: First, I consider the task for which the association was primarily established to have practically been accomplished; second, the political and educational work of the association combined have constituted, and still constitute, a strain on my strength from which it is desirable for me to escape. The Free Trade Association was formed with a view to the defence of the freetrade policy of New South Wales. There can be but little doubt but that the work has been accomplished definitely and successfully. The controversy is practically ended. Our opponents have deserted the public platform, ceased their fierce agitation, and allowed nearly all their organisations to die out. The depression which existed for several years constituted the base of operations on which our opponents relied. Having failed to beat down the freetrade defence, they may be pardoned for retiring from the contest, as they have to face the future with the knowledge that their base of operations—the depression—has been already almost wholly destroyed, and is likely soon to utterly disappear. Under these circumstances, I feel that no one will be inclined to call in question my devotion to the principles of freetrade because I now consider it right to resign the position of your secretary. I remain, gentlemen, your faithful servant (signed) EDWARD PULSFORD." The meeting received the announcement of Mr. Pulsford's resignation with much regret, and decided that a general meeting of the association should be called for the purpose of considering the same, and also the steps to be taken with regard to the appointment of another secretary.

CASUALTIES.

SUICIDE IN THE BOTANIC GARDENS.

What appears to be a case of deliberate suicide occurred in the Botanic Gardens shortly before 10 o'clock yesterday morning. About 9 o'clock, a young man who has since been identified as Carl Arthur Theodore Bromberger, was observed to enter the gardens, and a short time later an employee named John Clark noticed Bromberger lying upon the grass in a shady portion of the grounds. There was nothing unusual in his manner, but Clark had scarcely passed when he was startled by the report of firearms. Hastening back, he discovered Bromberger lying near one of the hothouses, his right hand clasping a revolver. Blood was oozing from a wound in the left breast, and life was apparently extinct. The Water Police were quickly notified of the occurrence, and Senior-constables Edwards, Tyers, and Donovan conveyed the body to the Sydney Hospital, where it was examined and life pronounced extinct. Subsequently the body was removed to the North Sydney Morgue. Upon the clothes being searched the sum of £18 10s 5d in silver and gold was discovered, besides several references as to character. The City Coroner has fixed an inquest for this morning.

A railway conductor, named John Hyndes, 44 years of age, met with an accident yesterday morning. He was travelling by the Brisbane mail train bound for Sydney, and when at Murrurundi endeavoured to jump on the train while it was in motion, but missed his footing, and fell between the station and the train, with the result that he received abrasions to the back of his head and right knee, and also suffered synovitis of the right knee. On arrival in Sydney he was admitted to the Sydney Hospital.

Yesterday afternoon a man named Alexander Coulhard, while working on the steamer Platypus, was injured by some timber falling on him. He was admitted to the Prince Alfred Hospital, where it was found that he had sustained a fracture of the left thigh.

SPORTING INTELLIGENCE.

THE TURF.

The weekly trotting and race meeting under the management of the Sydney Driving Park Club takes place at Moore Park this afternoon, when an interesting programme, comprising five events, will be played out. Special trams and 'buses will run to the grounds at short intervals during the afternoon, and the opening event has been timed for 2.30 o'clock. The track is in good condition, and all other appointments are up to the usual standard.

The weights for the handicaps included in the Rosehill second January programme were declared yesterday, and Mr. Scarr's handiwork is published in another part of this issue. The Clyde Handicap has Victor Hugo in the pride of place, with 9st 5lb, a weight that he is clearly entitled to, and with which he may be depended to run a great horse. His stable companion Paddy has 3lb less, but he is too uncertain to be trusted, while his other stable mate, Gaytime, ran such a good mare in the Challenge Stakes that she must needs command respect when allotted an even 8st. With 9st Wilberforce has a very hearty appearance, and at 7st 11lb Dilisk is well in; and the best treated may be Gaytime, Wilberforce, and Victor Hugo. Beggar Boy heads the list of those engaged in the Steeplechase with 12st, and at that he has no cause for complaint; but as he was rather lame after his exertions in the Hurdle Race on Monday he had better be left alone, and the best in appear to be Bushman, Recruit, and Grafton. The Welter Handicap seems to be a very even piece of work, and if there be any choice it may be that Cobar, Stimulant, and Dolosa have slightly the best of it on figures. Silence, Starch, Euroka, and Queen of the Night appear to have been treated with some degree of leniency in the Nursery Handicap. At the first blush it would seem that Antaeus has been imposed upon when apportioned 9st 3lb in the Rosehill Handicap, for he quite failed to stay to the end of the journey in the Anniversary Handicap at Randwick on Monday last, when he carried 8st 12lb. However, it has since transpired that in that race he strained his shoulder, and it may be that the injury will cause his non-appearance on Saturday. Clonard has not been illtreated with 8st 9lb, neither has Vespasia at 4lb less; and all things considered, the most tenderly used may be Bluenose, Fernando, and Dilisk.

The liberal bill of fare issued by the Warwick Farm Racing Club for their February reunion met with a generous response from trainers and owners yesterday, when the list for the five events closed with 105 nominations, of which the Flying Stakes was responsible for 24; Welter Auction Stakes, 10; Jersey Handicap, 27; Nursery Handicap, 17; and Pace Welter, 27. The list appears elsewhere in this issue.

In this issue will be found the bill of fare drafted for discussion at their February meeting by the Canterbury Park authorities, and for the events comprised therein entries close with the secretary, Mr. M. Seale, on Monday next, 2nd proximo, as under:—Flying Handicap of 60 sovs., 6 furlongs 50 yards; Park Stakes, a handicap of 50 sovs., for all horses that have never won an advertised prize of the value of 25 sovs. at the time of running, once round, about 7 furlongs; Welter Handicap of 60 sovs., lowest weight 8st 7lb., 6 furlongs 50 yards; February Handicap of 100 sovs., second horse to receive 10 sovs. from the prize, 1¼ mile; Selling Race of 75 sovs., for three-year-olds and upwards, winner to be sold for 75 sovs., selling allowances, 6 furlongs; and Stewards' Mile, a handicap of 60 sovs., lowest weight 7st 7lb. The weights are promised on the 9th proximo, and the usual nomination fee of one sov. covers all responsibility for each race.

The settlement of liabilities incurred at the Canterbury Park January meeting and the S. T. C. Anniversary reunion took place at Tattersall's Rooms yesterday, and passed off without complaint. During the afternoon the leading handicaps of the V. R. C. Autumn Meeting became the medium of speculation, and a fair amount of business was transacted. Bungebah was most inquired for in connection with the Newmarket Handicap, and 100 to 7 was the best price obtainable; 100 to 5 was accepted about Too Soon, and Marvel had some friends, who took the same price, which was also on offer against Bendigo, after all the money at 200 to 9 had been exhausted. 100 to 5 could be got about Cooramin, and 100 to 4 about Cuirassier and Megaphone. Greystown and Megaphone were equal favourites for the Australian Cup at 100 to 12, taken and offered; 100 to 10 could be had about Melos, and 100 to 8 about Cuirassier. Double-event wagering also had some attention, at prices ranging from 1000 to 10 to 1000 to 3, commencing with Bungebah, Bendigo, Cooramin, Marvel, Too Soon, Clonard, Fernando, Churchill, Conceit, Matador, The Admiral, &c.

The management of the Sydney Driving Park Club are in the field with the programme for their trotting and race meeting, to be held at Moore Park on the 4th proximo, as follows:—Miniature Handicap of 20 sovs., 13.1, ½ mile; Hammer Stakes of 30 sovs., 14.2, w.f.a., winner to be sold for 30 sovs., ½ mile 50 yards; Maiden Trot of 30 sovs., saddle and harness, for all horses that have never won a prize exceeding £15, 1½ mile; Club Handicap of 30 sovs., 14.0, [illegible] furlongs; and Moore Park Handicap of 30 sovs., 14.2, 1 mile. Nominations for the above items must be lodged with the secretary, Mr. E. G. Froom, before 4 p.m. on Friday next, and must be accompanied by the usual entry fee of one sov. for each race.

In reply to a request from Mr. F. Webster, secretary of the Agricultural Society of N.S.W., the Hon. Donald Wallace has intimated his willingness to exhibit the great racehorse Carbine at the society's show at Easter, provided that the dates shall be so arranged as not to interfere with the racing engagements of the son of Musket.

The pony racing and trotting meeting which was postponed from Saturday evening last, owing to the inclement state of the weather, will be brought off at the Lillie Bridge Grounds on next Friday evening.

The stakes disbursed over the Anniversary Meeting of the Sydney Turf Club total £1875, of which the largest portion went to Mr. E. E. Oatley through the agency of Highborn, who won the leading event—the Anniversary Handicap; Mr. J. Hart came next on the list with £424, the result of Prairie Rose's unexpected victory in the Challenge Stakes; the performance of Starch in the Nursery Handicap earned £179 for Mr. J. Monaghan; Sovereign secured £150 for Mr. E. Chippendale by his success in the Sovereign Handicap; Mr. J. Phillips received £147 for Pentagon's win in the Hurdle Race; and a similar amount was credited to Mr. H. Gittinan by Hugo's performance in the Corinthian Plate. The lesser prizes were as under: Mr. G. B. Rowley, £75 (Bluenose second in the Anniversary Handicap); Mr. R. Dwyer, £50 (Wilberforce second in the Challenge Stakes); Mr. A. H. Macarthur, £25 (Maud second in the Hurdle Race); Mr. E. J. Wangenheim, £25 (Odo third in the Challenge Stakes); Mr. J. Cuaffe, £25 (Euroka second in the Nursery Handicap); Mr. T. Cush, £25 (Killaloe third in the Anniversary Handicap); and T. Robinson, £25 (Volney second in the Corinthian Plate).

The yearling colt, by Grand Flaneur from Telescope, has been named Daredevil; and the colt by Trenton from Ennui, Goodfellow.

The proprietors of the Hobartville stud have determined to reserve all their Trenton fillies solely for breeding purposes.

A five-event card has been adopted by the Jerry's Plains sportsmen for the race meeting which takes place on March 13. The principal handicap is worth £25, and the added money totals £50.

Owners and trainers intending to secure some of the prizes offered by the Murrumburrah Turf Club at their annual meeting on the 18th and 19th proximo should note that nominations for the principal handicaps—the Town Plate of 40 sovs, 1¼ mile; Hurdle Race of 25 sovs., 2 miles; and Turf Club Handicap of 60 sovs., 1¼ mile—must be in the hands of the hon. secretary, Mr. John Tindale, before 4 p.m. to-morrow.

The Moree Racing Club have adopted a most attractive bill of fare for their annual re-union, which has been fixed for April 1 and 2, when £550 will be distributed in prizes over a dozen events, the principal of which are—Tattersall's Handicap of 100 sovs., 1½ mile; and Club Handicap of 150 sovs., 1½ mile.

The Narrabri sportsmen have fixed the date of their annual races for March 10 and 11, and the programme for the occasion contains five events for each day, the leading items being the Namoi Handicap, of 70 sovs., 1 mile and a furlong; and Club Handicap of 80 sovs., 1 mile and 3 furlongs, while the added money total £355.

March 18 and 19 are the dates selected by the Singleton Jockey Club for their annual meeting; and with the liberal programme the reunion bids fair to be a success.

Advices from Tasmania record the death of the imported trotting stallion Len Rose, who recently broke loose from his stable, fell into the Hobart rivulet, and broke his back.

SIR JOSEPH BANKS' PONY RACES.

Pony racing has received a fresh impetus by the formation of a new track at the Sir Joseph Banks' Grounds, Botany. The track was opened yesterday, and appeared to be well adapted to the sport. It is situated on what was originally the quarter-mile pedestrian track, and is of the same circumference. It is of ample width, and laid with cinder, the formation having been carried out under the supervision of Mr. Frank Smith. There were from five to six hundred people present, and they appeared to be well satisfied with the sport provided. The programme consisted of five events, over which the sum of £100 was distributed in prizes. The trotting race provided an exciting contest, the winner, Rufus, showing in front, and being overtaken no fewer than three times before he was finally able to claim the judge's award. Mr. J. Murtough officiated as judge and Mr. G. Welsh as starter. Two of the jockeys—Matthews and Cavanough—were each fined £1 for disobedience at the post. The following are the details of the racing:—

THE INTERCOLONIAL CRICKET MATCH.

The 46th intercolonial match between New South Wales and Victoria was continued on the Association Cricket Ground yesterday before a limited assemblage. His Excellency the Governor was present in the afternoon. The weather was very trying, a fierce sun beating down pitilessly, while a hot wind blew across the ground from the west, bringing with it at intervals a cloud of dust. It will be remembered that when the stumps were drawn on Monday the Victorians had been disposed of for 181 in the first innings, and New South Wales had scored 262 for the loss of six wickets. Such a lead was certainly a heavy handicap in favour of the home players, but it was immensely increased with a perfect wicket to play on, and at 5.30, when the last man had been disposed of, the score stood at 465, being 284 to the good. Although some lively cricket was exhibited at intervals, the play altogether was very slow, as is shown by the fact that the day's batting realised only a couple of hundred runs on a pitch like a billiard-table. Moses, one of the not out men, increased his score from 81 to 147, and he was caught out after having been at the wickets about seven hours. It was believed by several who were close enough to see that he was caught out by Blackham on Monday afternoon shortly before the stumps were drawn; but the umpire would not allow the appeal—and rightly too—because the bowler after delivering the ball had run across the pitch, and obscured the umpire's view. Apart from that, there is no doubt as to the ease with which Moses played the bowling, and while a great deal of his play was of the cautious description, the ball, nevertheless, travelled speedily enough and far enough whenever he made up his mind to hit. This is the second occasion on which he has scored over 100 in the matches against Victoria, the first being in January, 1888, when he scored 297, not out. While, however, Moses claims attention for his big score, Garrett must be awarded high rank for his attractive cricket. There was no element of uncertainty in his play, and his batting was so free and his hitting as vigorous as could be wished for. He knocked up his runs quickly, and with 75 to his credit was able to return to the pavilion with an easy mind. His success on this occasion must be the more gratifying to himself and his admirers as his inclusion in the team did not meet with general approval. The Victorian captain, in order to spare his men as much as possible, changed the bowling frequently, no fewer than five changes being made before luncheon. In the afternoon the trundling became demoralised, and the batsmen played it without great difficulty, Phillips alone coming out with a fair average, securing five wickets for 88 runs. The Victorians stuck to their fielding manfully, Morris and Worrall again acquitting themselves remarkably well. The visitors had a few minutes left in which to start their second innings before 6 o'clock, and 5 runs had been scored when the time came for drawing the stumps.

THE PLAY.

The not out men, Moses and Charlton, resumed their innings, Moses having 80 to his credit and Charlton 2. The latter at the southern end opened the play by cutting Carlton for a brace. He hit the fifth to the boundary past mid off, and kept his bat well down on a yorker, with which the over finished. Phillips took the ball at the other end, and a late cut by Moses brought him a single. He pulled Carlton round to the boundary forward of square leg, and scored another four at the off, Tarrant not having time to get to the ball. With the total at 280 Morris replaced Carlton, and Charlton got him round to long leg for 3, Trumble returning the ball after a hard run. Play dragged on slowly for a time, and at length Moses jumped out to Morris, and drove him along the turf to the boundary, back-cutting him afterwards for a single to Tarrant, who fielded the ball well. Charlton cut an off-theory from Phillips neatly between Walters and Carlton for a brace, and three byes were run off a fast one from Phillips, much to the disgust of Blackham. Horan took the ball from Morris, and Moses scored a single off his first to fine-leg, bringing up 300. He played the same bowler to mid-on for a brace, bringing his score up to 101. Worrall relieved Phillips, and bowled a maiden, Horan following suit. A single to Moses off Worrall for a small hit not far from the wicket, and Horan took a shot at the stumps, which but for a slight lack of direction would have cut short the career of the New South Wales captain. Another change was tried in the bowling, Trumble going on instead of Horan. Charlton glanced Trumble to the boundary at long-leg, and Moses cut him for a couple, the ball giving Phillips a long chase before he could reach it. Charlton then received his dismissal, his wicket going down to a ball from Worrall which he hit at, but too late. 7-28-317. Garrett was the next batsman, and Phillips went on at the northern end, in place of Trumble, bowling a maiden to Moses. Worrall sent in another to Garrett, who started very carefully. A single to Moses off Phillips, and Garrett cut him over Trott's head, the fielder touching the ball with his left hand. An adjournment was then made for luncheon, and on resuming Phillips bowled a maiden to Garrett, the batsman declining the acquaintance of three successive off-theory balls. He snicked Worrall close to the fence at fine-leg for 3, and Moses got a couple for a tip in the same direction. Garrett played forward to Phillips, and the ball went instead to square-leg for a couple, and he rapped the last of the over hard to mid-off for the same. He then cut Worrall, and Trott at point tried for a hard catch low down, but did not succeed in holding it. Moses cut Phillips for a single, and the bowler taking the return too easy missed the ball, another run being scored for the overthrow. A couple to Garrett off Phillips at mid off, and Moses skied Worrall also to the off, but none of the field could get near it. Garrett drove Phillips along the turf for a single, and hit Worrall at the off to the boundary. With the score at 345, Walters took the ball from Phillips at the northern end, and Garrett scored a single off him, Moses stepped out to one from Worrall, and making a full toss of it, scored a boundary hit. 350 up. Trott replaced Walters, and trying a fast one to Moses, got it a little to leg, 2 being scored off it. Morris went on at the southern end, and Garrett drove him for a single, following it up with a mid-off hit for a couple. He hit Trott at the off side twice to the boundary off successive balls, and Worrall spoilt a well-intended hit by Moses picking up the ball neatly with his left hand. Garrett hit Morris pretty hard to the off for a couple, Houston saving the boundary-hit, but Garrett opened his shoulders to the next, and sent it against the fence in the same direction. Carlton relieved Trott, and Trumble went on in place of Morris. Garrett made a chop-hit at Carlton, and put him back in the slips for 2, following it up with another brace to the off. Moses back-cut Trumble to the boundary, Walters, who went for the ball, not making any determined effort to reach it. In the next over Garrett cut Carlton to the fence, and again in the same line for 2, thus bringing up 400. The last of the over he hit to the boundary at mid-off, bringing his score up to 52, or third highest in the match so far. The usual afternoon's adjournment for refreshments was then made. On resuming, Trott and Worrall took charge of the bowling, and Garrett drove Trott to the boundary, and back cut him with the same result. He stepped out to the same bowler and skied him at the on side for a brace, following it up with a cut for as many more. Moses went well forward to Trott, and hit him to the boundary at the off. Phillips relieved Trott, and Moses stepped him for a single, after which his innings terminated. He stepped out to Phillips, and hit the ball up to mid-off, where Tarrant took a catch. 8-147-433. Downes followed, and Trott replaced Phillips, Downes hitting him at the off to the boundary. Worrall tried a fast round arm to Garrett, who drove him for a single, thus bringing his score up to 71, second highest for New South Wales. The next he hit to the boundary at the off, and making a miss hit in the same over was caught out at point by Trott. 9-75-446. Wales was the last man to go in, and after a couple of overs from Phillips, Trott went on again at the northern end. Downes stepped out to Trott, and drove him to the boundary, but he missed the next and Blackham had his bails off like a flash, although the batsman somehow managed to get home. Three to Wales off Trott, and Downes hit out at a whirly one from Trott, but failed to reach it, and was stumped. 9-12-465. Wales, the not-out man, scored 12.

The Victorians being in a minority of 284 sent in Houston and Blackham to start their second innings at 10 minutes to 6. Turner and Downes commenced the bowling, and Turner opened with a maiden to Houston. After a couple of overs Blackham drove Turner to within a yard of the boundary for 3, and with the total standing at 5 the stumps were drawn. The following are the scores and bowling analysis:—

BOWLS.

At the invitation of the St. Leonards Club the Newtown Club played a game on Saturday last at St. Leonards. Owing to the rain some of the Newtown players were absent. Two rinks were present, and the weather clearing, a very pleasant afternoon was spent. The Railway and Tramway Band put in an appearance, with a request to be allowed to play, which was granted. There was a large number of onlookers. Rain came on heavily at the finish of the game. The usual compliments were passed between the entertainers and their visitors. The following players took part in the match:—

First Rink.—Newtown: L. Jones, J. Forsyth, C J. Lane, J. M. Toohey (captain), 26. St. Leonards: J. Jago, J. Ebert, T. Jelly, W. Alexander (captain), 15. Second Rink.—Newtown: A. Harber, A. J. RELIEF TO THE POOR.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—The admirable oration delivered by the Rev. J. D. Langley, and the logical arguments contained in your leader this morning, may perhaps stimulate philanthropists, and bring relief to those who stand in need of it. As the population increases, and in proportion with the wealth of a city, so does the number of paupers and unemployed. Very few of the well-to-do citizens of Sydney, more especially amongst those who have not travelled much out of Australia—very few, I say, have the remotest idea of the frightful state of poverty and privation that exists in this bright fair city of ours. The Rev. J. D. Langley, and I dare say the writer of the article I have alluded to have, like myself, looked closely into this great and ever-increasing number of "outcasts," who day and night congregate in our parks, and have now converted those delightful public resorts into plague spots—during the day; and worse, much worse indeed, after sunset. Church influence can do much good amongst the poor and unemployed who have a home, let that home be ever so wretched or squalid. But there is a class, aye, a very large one, of unfortunate people who have neither home nor shelter of any kind, whose precarious sustenance consists of "scraps" of food picked up in the streets, dug up from the garbage placed in the back slums of the city, awaiting the scavengers' nightcarts. It may be the opinion of a great majority that the wretched beings I am now endeavouring to depict are "worthless loafers," who would not work even if they were offered wages. I will at once acknowledge that, unfortunately, there are many of that despicable kind amongst them; but I know for certain that a fair percentage are able, willing to work, not for wages, but for food and shelter. I have only lately returned to Sydney after an absence of 12 years, and I have been most painfully struck to notice the enormous increase of houseless poor which now almost fill the Sydney reserves. Having devoted much time to the study of this matter I have satisfied myself, and I trust I may tend to convince others, that we should one and all assist the Rev. Mr. Langley in his praiseworthy efforts to assist our fellow-creatures; most of them seek employment, and in this vast and rich territory, employment can surely be found for a few hundred of able-bodied men—or women.

Allow me to quote one case which has come under my notice: Only a few days ago, taking a short cut through the Domain, at the rear of the Fine Art Gallery I spied a man asleep in a remote corner; his face, although emaciated and partly covered with a beard of several weeks' growth, seemed familiar. I woke the sleeper, and confirmed my suspicions: the tale of sufferings, the actual starving condition of this man, whom barely a year ago I had seen in New Zealand in a fair position, gave me an awful shock. Yet this is an intelligent, well-bred, educated man. The old story! His scanty purse became exhausted; he had to pawn first his watch, then his clothes, until, alas! his outward appearance, rendered every day more and more dilapidated, brought him at last to that stage when he did not dare to approach any one to seek—not only work, but food! which he had not tasted for many hours—the last crust being, as I stated before, rescued from the scavengers' cart! This, believe me, is only one case in many hundred. Like the reverend gentleman who has raised his voice with so much Christian feeling, I say that great discernment need be used in assisting these poor wretches. My maxim is and has always been Aide toi et Dieu t'aidera. I have seen in that glorious country so often called "Merry England" poor people during the bitter winter months come to my sister's door in Birmingham, and on the production of a ticket from the relief committee get a loaf of bread and a quart of hot soup. Following my usual inquisitive propensities, I tracked some of the half-starved wretches, and in many instances saw them "traffic" the scant food for drink! I quote this dreadful fact to strengthen my argument that "gifts" are not the proper remedy; the means to earn the price of food—or, better still, food and shelter until permanent employment be procured—are what hundreds of so-called vagrants now lying in our parks are in need of.

The city of Sydney and its vast suburbs are in sad need of regular and thorough cleansing. If at dawn of day squads of sweepers recruited from amongst the "needy" were started from, say, every ward under proper surveillance, accompanied by carts and horses, to remove the sweepings, three or four hours of this work paid, say, at the rate of 4d or 6d an hour, would provide food at all events for those who are willing to earn it. Having found means to occupy all who are "willing" to work, severe repression should be used against those who will not work. Much as I sympathise with the really poor wretch who is willing to work, I do not think that even the lash would be too severe for the "loafer."

TREATMENT OF JEWS IN RUSSIA.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—No one can possibly have read unmoved the gross cruelties that have been, and are being, perpetrated on the Jewish people in Russia.

We, the Australians, proud of our freedom, and ever ready to help with our sympathy and our purse suffering and misery in any portion of the world; we, the decendants of the British races have ever been the staunch adherents of freedom in our own lands, and to whom Poland, Hungary, Greece, Belgium, and other oppressed nationalities have ever turned with longing and grateful eyes to seek our support; and rarely has this been sought in vain; surely it is our duty to express our sympathy with the Jewish people who are now suffering such inhuman and cruel persecutions throughout the Russian Empire. It is true that the Czar lately returned to the Lord Mayor of London the petition for amelioration lately forwarded from England, still the very fact of such an address having been forwarded must have had some moral influence.

Were the Jews the most debased race in the world they would still be entitled to protection; but when we consider all we owe to this grand race, our religion, the basis of our laws, their wonderful genius displayed in music, poetry, literature, finance, the fine arts, and commerce, is it not our bounden duty to make some protest against the horrible cruelties now being inflicted on this peaceful and law abiding people?

Is it not time that a public meeting should be called, to be presided over by the Right Worshipful the Mayor, to protest against such persecution? And even if our Australian petition met with the same fate as the British one, it must have some moral influence with the Czar.

UNIONISM AND CO-OPERATION.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—In your issue of the 22nd, Mr. John Plummer objects to what I have written on the subject of the co-operation of the maritime unions. That is only one phase of the question. To me it seems clear that labour unions have now passed beyond the stage of endeavouring to redress grievances which workmen suffer under, and have taken up a fresh position both here and elsewhere. In the past, and on the old ground, they have done much good. In the new position they claim that they shall be allowed to take some part (in most cases a very large and continually increasing part) in the management of the businesses by which the particular workmen engaged in the handwork of the industries and the employers, as well as all other members of the community, live. To allow of their doing this, it also seems clear to me to be one question that the conditions of the various industries must be altered. The union workmen in each industry if they are to share in the management (and new unionism means this) must also be prepared to share in the losses which are at least as frequent and as large as the gains. How is this to be done? If the unions became incorporated companies capable of suing and being sued, and accumulated sufficient capital as they might do in a short time by self-denial and good management, the course would be simple enough as to the particular selected men who were inside the unions, but it would exclude all men—a large class—who have no money, and not sufficient self-denial or energy to get it, and are for that reason outside the unions. This might be called co-operation, and to a certain extent might do good, but it would leave the trouble of a large class of helpless workmen where it is; or the unions without capital might take on themselves much of the responsibility and the accompanying right of management of all industries by establishing for themselves a reputation for reliability, and so managing their agreements and contracts over a series of years, that all with whom they dealt, or wished to deal, would be prepared to trust them implicitly. In this there is still the same difficulty that it could only be carried out by picked men who possess both self-denial and energy, and such men would succeed under any circumstances; but, further, it is opposed to the "spirit of Australian unionism," as indicated by Mr. Spence and other labour leaders, and acted on by nearly all the unions in the late labour crisis. They have claimed that no agreement should be kept if its terms be opposed to the interest of the unions. That is that the union leaders should have the right to break any contract or agreement when they think it is to the interest of their unions to do so. This, whether they see it or not, amounts to saying that no agreement should be made as an agreement which is not held to be binding, and cannot be enforced, is only a senseless and deceptive form. What I have endeavoured to make clear to others as it seems clear to me is that this last claim must be fatal to the success of unionism, and, if persisted in, destructive to modern civilisation, and in either case, destructive to unionism. Without good faith and honesty among men, whether as individuals, corporations, or unions, civilisation would not last a year, and it is no answer to this to say that we have now to maintain laws and police to compel men to be honest, and keep their contracts. Unless the vast majority of men preferred honesty and good faith to dishonesty and bad faith we could not enforce any law. He who will not keep his word even to his own heart has no right to call himself a man. He has degraded himself below the level of a beast. But it is now taught that unions should break their agreements when they please. Is there any way out of this difficulty which unionists could or would adopt? A reputation for bad faith in the matter of agreements is not easily got rid of, and I am afraid Australian unions, under a short-sighted leadership, have acquired such a reputation. The fact that they had done so was the real secret of the uncompromising attitude of the employers in the late "labour crisis." Whatever the way out of the difficulty may be, clearly it will not be by forming a ring or corner between the maritime unions and steamship owners, to enable them to levy a tax of indefinite amount on the primary wealth producers of the country. The maritime unions and steamship owners are merely handlers of the wealth which other people in this and other countries produce, and though they are entitled to full payment for the services rendered, they must not be allowed to take advantage of their position to create a monopoly by means of the boycott or any other means.

The manager of the Union Bank of Australia, Limited, has been informed by cable that at a meeting of proprietors, held in London yesterday, a dividend at the rate of 14 per cent. was declared, and about £16,000 carried forward.

The ordinary half-yearly general meeting of shareholders of the Mortgage Guarantee and Mercantile Finance Corporation of New South Wales, Limited, was held to-day, Mr. W. H. Armstrong presiding. The directors' report and balance-sheet for the half-year ending 31st December, 1890, were unanimously adopted. The balance-sheet showed that the amount appearing to the credit of profit and loss account, after deducting rebate on bills current, interest on deposits, providing for bad and doubtful debts, and defraying cost of management, and including £1033 brought forward, was £5399, which the directors recommend for appropriation as follows:—To reserve fund (making reserve fund £2500), £500; to preliminary expenses, write off 20 per cent. of £1157 8s 4d, £291 9s 8d; to office furniture and stationery account, write off 20 per cent. of £439 4s 7d, £87 16s 11d; to freehold property account, being 6 per cent. per annum on the cash payments, £2701 4s; to dividend, at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum, £1500; leaving a balance to carry forward to next half-year's accounts, £219 2s 6d. A dividend at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum for the half-year was declared. A resolution for the reduction of the number of directors to not more than four or less than three was passed unanimously, and will be submitted for confirmation at an early date.

The annual meeting of the Manly Gaslight Company was held to-day, Mr. John Woods in the chair. The report showed that the net profits for the year had been £1485. Dividends for the year at the rate of 10 per cent. per annum, amounting to £1500, had been declared £53 had been placed to reserve, and £148 carried forward. The report was adopted, and Messrs. T. H. Kegwin and E. Ridge were elected directors, and Messrs. J. M. Manton and Julius Caro as auditors.

The twenty-sixth half-yearly meeting of the Sydney Freehold Land, Building, and Investment Company was held to-day. Mr. N. G. Arguimbaw occupied the chair. The report shows that the receipts for the half-year had been: Balance standing at credit of profit and loss, 30th June, 1890, £263; rents, £56; interest, £881; profit on land sold, as per profit and loss account, £718. Mortgage redemption account: Amount transferred, £3114, making a total of £5034. The expenditure had been: Salaries, management, and general expenses, £585; amount written off (estate improvements and building repairs), £93; interest on mortgage, £900. Dividend at the rate of 10 per cent. per annum, declared for the half-year ended 31st December, 1890, £937 10s; leaving a balance to credit of profit and loss, £2517. The report was adopted.

The twelfth annual report of the City Mutual Life Assurance Society, to be presented to the shareholders on February 4, shows that during the year 826 proposals had been accepted or completed assuring £82,203. The revenue account shows that the new premium revenue had amounted to £1706, the renewal premiums £16,670, the interest £1863, making a total of £73,190. On the other side claims under endowment policies with bonus additions had absorbed £6790; endowments matured, £220; annuity, £10; surrenders, £233; surrender values exhausted, £260; premiums refunded, £58; commission, £928; medical fees, £330; expenses of management, £3813; leaving the total funds as £61,014, against £50,954, at the beginning of the year.

In the import markets to-day little of interest transpired, transactions as usual towards the close of the month being of a trade-order character only. The flour market is steady but firm, and reports from the Southern colonies also indicate firmness. The news conveyed in our cablegrams announcing that the frosts had "severely damaged the wheat crops on the Continent," and that "in consequence of the unusual severity of the winter in South Russia the crops are in a very bad condition and the yield will fall far short of the average," must sooner or later tell unfavourably on the market, of which otherwise the statistical position, according to the Economist, is not favourable to the continuance of low prices for a much longer period. In tea, a considerable quantity of common has been placed on terms which have not been disclosed, though it is understood that the price is what would be regarded as low if the tea were of good sound leaf. Epps's cocoa, from 1s 6½d to 1s 7d, according to quantity. In dried fruit, currants are still procurable at 4½d to 5d, but the inquiry for them is restricted. Concerning the English market for dried fruit the Produce Markets Review of December 6 has the following:—

The market for all kinds of dried fruit has been quiet, and the business of the last fortnight has been more or less disappointing. It is more than ever clear that the bulk of the trade was done earlier than usual, and that what at that time was regarded as a marked increase in consumption was to some extent due to the fact that grocers were induced to go more freely into stock than is usually the case. They, on the other hand, now appear to be resolved to clear out of stock, and although this plan, of course, causes a temporary quietness in the demand, it greatly improves the promise of spring trade. If the grocers continue to hold off during the present month it will mean their starting the New Year with only a small weight of fruit left on hand, and, with the unusual scarcity of green and tinned fruit, the consumption of currants and raisins is likely during the early months of 1891 to be larger than usual. Sultanas are again rather cheaper, but more business has been done. Holders appear to be quite confident that present prices are fully justified, and it is not at all impossible that a good business may still be done before Christmas, as many of the grocers have put off buying until the last moment, in the hope of a decline. The price in Smyrna, in view of the small stock remaining there, is firm.

The price of sugar is unaltered. Of the auction catalogue the sale is reported of 46 tons of white at £24, and of 17 tons of grainy yellow at £22; other yellow sugar has been sold at £20 to £21 10s. There has been a good deal of inquiry for ling, considerable quantities having been sold to arrive, 4¾d to 4⅞d is quoted for immediate delivery. In general grocery no business of consequence is reported. The auction sales were of no moment as an indication of change in value. In brewers' goods the market is unaltered. A fairly good trade is reported in ale, including a good parcel of Monk brand at current rates. Pommery's champagne is in small supply at the moment, the extremely cold weather in Europe having prevented chipments. Small sales of Hennessy's single star brandy have been made at 35s 9d, stocks still being light. The metal trade is quiet. Sheet lead is moving at £17 15s. Corrugated are selling at 6s 4d, and branbags at 6s 9d. Shipments of slates have been placed at late current rates. A better business has been done in cement at 14s 9d to 15s.

Messrs. Fraser and Co. advertise for sale by auction to-morrow (Wednesday) morning, at M'Ilwraith's Wharf, Sussex-street, cement; at their rooms, teas, and salvage goods ex Talavera.

At the auction wool sales to-day, the catalogues numbered 11,300 bales, and the sales reported amounted to 7544 bales. The wool now coming to market is not so good as was received earlier in the season, and the competition for the poorer sorts is less active. The following reports have been supplied:—

Harrison, Jones and Devlin, Limited, report:—Yesterday being a holiday we held our weekly sale to-day, bringing forward for the occasion a catalogue of 4664 bales, which we submitted to a full attendance of the trade. As the season draws to a close the proportion of good wools is becoming very small, and the selection offered to-day consisted chiefly of medium classes. Considering the assortment, the demand was fairly active. Prices for good wools were firm; but skirty classes were more difficult of sale unless at a concession in values. News of the opening of the sales in London to-day is being looked for anxiously, and although to-day's market bore no indications of any impending change, any alteration in values there will be quickly responded to on this side. Privately and by auction we have disposed of 3021 bales, following being some of the leading lines:—Greasy: H L Co. Ltd. over Furracabad, 273 at 8¼d, from Inverell; W Mui, 20 at 8½d, from Michelago; AP8C over New England, 33 at 8¼d, from Armidale; V over C over New England, 44 at 8½d, from Armidale; DF, 29 at 8¼d, from Narrandera; 8sl, over Mudgee, 21 at 8¼d, from Spicer's Creek; E over CD over New England, 24 at 8d, from Armidale; £3, 10 at 8d, from Whoo; GX over New England, 21 at 8d, from Armidale; F over F, 53 at 8d, from Fullerton; A over Glenbower, 29 at 8½d, from Yass; WL over Willowdale, 25 at 7¾d, from Boggabri; V3, 13 at 7½d, from Boggabri; WB over Stroke, 37 at 7¼d, from Armidale; TMs over G Radgery, 15 at 7¼d, from Coonamble; — over M, 27 at 7¼d, from Coonamble; F Bros over Willewa, 74 at 7¼d, from Corinda; WR over Low's Creek, 17 at 7¼d, from Quirindi; NM, 29 at 7¼d, from Cooma; Lucerne Vale, 24 pieces at 7d, from Yass; gD over New England, 13 at 7¼d, from Armidale; D over 4, 45 at 7¼d, from Canowindra; HH, 63 at 7¼d, from Bannaby; JHP over Evergreen, 39 at 7¼d, from Quirindi; HL (conjoined) Y, 93 at 7¼d, from Coonamble; PB over Park Vale, 110 at 7¼d, from Hay; Z, 31 at 7¼d, from Mulloon; M and 8 over G, 13 at 7¼d, from Goulburn; Boland, 11 at 7¼d, from Breeza; R over J, 10 at 7¼d, from Bungendore; RHU over New England, 12 at 7¼d, from Armidale; McP and W over West Bogan, 436 at 7¼d, 94 first pieces at 5½d, 47 bellies at 5¼d, from Nyngan; FOH over Woolomin, 46 at 7¼d; N in circle, 45 at 7d, from Quirindi; AA over Mullanla, 28 at 7¼d, from Cootamundra; JMB over Jew's Lagoon, 79 at 7d, from Millie; V over RH, 24 at 7¼d, from Kowra; K over AV, 71 at 6d, from Byerock. Goldsbrough, Mort, and Co., Limited, report having offered 2146 bales wool for their first sale of the week held to-day. Although buyers were present in full force, there was no improvement in prices as compared with last week's sales, and more reserve in the biddings. Information regarding opening prices at the London January sales will probably be to hand to-morrow, after which the market here may be more regular. At to-day's sale, good greasy brought up to 9d; averaged washed fleece at 10½d, fair scoured to 15½d. At auction and privately 1111 bales were disposed of the following being the most important lots. Greasy: Z over A over New England, 21 bales at 9d; JR over B, from Bookham, 9 at 8½d; MH over Bulgeing, from Windellima, 6 at 6d; As over Tyrvine, from Bombala, 26 at 8d; JA over Cocopara, from Whitton, 37 at 8d; A belt in diamond, 34 at 8d; TKt over Ellerslie, from Moree, 4 at 8d; JW over Fairdale, from Yeronga Creek, 8 at 8¼d; Rosevale, from Narrandera, 27 at 7¾d; GS over W over Darling Downs, 14 at 7¾d; 8 over JG over New England, 14 at 7¾d; RG over D, from Merabura, 12 at 7¼d; RDA over Summer Hill, 9 at 7¾d; TS, from Bathurst, 10 at 7½; 8 BROS T, from Bourke, 31 at 7d; TTL over Wiwendilla, 34 at 7d. J. H. Geddes and Co. (the Pastoralists' Association, Limited) report that at their fourteenth sale of the season they submitted a catalogue of 1000 bales, and disposed of by auction and privately 1050 bales since last sale. Competition was animated, and prices ruled on a par with those of last week. No high class clips, however, were submitted, the bulk being from inferior to medium wools from the western and southern districts, the highest price (8¾d) being obtained for a medium parcel in fair condition from Burrowa. The demand for medium scoured pieces continues strong, and the scoured portion of the catalogue met with ready sale. The following were the principal lots sold:—DF over Kenya, 25 bales from Burrowa at 8¾d; G9 over Wongo, 12 from Manilla at 7¾d; JTO over Hillton, from Barmedman, 15 at 6¾d; Rosevale 5 from Wagga at 7¾d; D. John Bridge and Co. report that for their twelfth sale 1490 bales were brought forward. Buyers were again present in full force, but in view of the uncertain results of London sales, which were to open yesterday, competition was marked by a considerable amount of caution, and prices in consequence must be regarded as easier. The majority of owners, also in anticipation of news from London, naturally enough did not feel disposed to accept the reductions made, and consequently withdrawals were larger than usual. We were, however, enabled to dispose of 1072 bales at auction, which with private sales of 380 bales make a total of 2352 bales since last week; JD over GW, 21 at 7¼d; EE over Bow, 23 at 7d; FFF, 23 at 7d; W over New England, 11 at 7d; C over Teviot Bank, 19 at 7¼d; HK, 33 at 7d; JD over Majura, 35 at 7d; 8B over New England, 23 at 7¼d; PC, 25 at 8d; DBJ over New England, 19 at 8½d; WR over Aurora Park, 12 at 7¼d; M, 2 at 7¼d; G and I, over Abercrombie, 11 at 7¼d; DQ over Willy Waller, 25 at 7¼d; LY over Mogemil, 22 at 7d; MN over W, 29 at 7¼d; EH over F, 21 at 7¼d; P over Burnima, 16 at 7¼d; MR over Black Rock, 21 at 8¼d. At a meeting of the shareholders of the Jackson Gold-mining Company, Kimberley, to-night, it was announced that the directors had purchased a five-stamper battery on the Golden Crown claim, making a total crushing power of 15-head, and had also purchased the Golden Crown claim conditionally, on six months' exemption being granted. PORT DARWIN, MONDAY.

Eighteen tons of quartz from Griffith's No. 1 North Union Claim yielded 167oz. of gold.

BROKEN HILL, TUESDAY.

A good deal of activity is being shown along the south extension of the Broken Hill line as far south as the White Lead Proprietary. Block 5 shaft is down 553ft., and galena is showing strongly in the leaders and through the lode generally. One day the water came in but has now disappeared. The crosscut of the South Extended is softer, and specks of galena are showing. The Rising Sun North has cut other veins of galena west of shaft, and there are no signs of the hanging-wall, though the crosscut is in 64ft. The Rising Sun will reach the 400ft. level this week, and then open out west for the lode. The Rising Sun Extended is crosscutting at the 350ft. level, and expects to get the lode in another 30ft. to 40ft. At the White Lead Proprietary work has been resumed in the old underlay shaft, and some very good oxydised ore carrying chlorides is being raised. The shoot of ore is 6ft. wide, and no hanging-wall is showing. A connection will be made between these workings and the main shaft. In the latter crosscutting and driving is going on at the 300ft. level in lode stuff which is highly mineralised.

Arrangements have now been completed for bringing in water to the mines from Acacia district by tram. Block 14 will receive 30,000 gallons per day, and this will permit smelting to be resumed. Two furnaces will therefore be blown in on Friday or Saturday. A good development of ore is being opened on at the 150ft. level, which carries from 40 to 60 ounces of silver and a high percentage of lead and copper. The crosscut west at the 600ft. level is in 170ft. through ground more favourable. It is still perfectly dry, and considerable improvements have been made in surface work. The fourth smelter has been built, but waits for the delivery of the foundry work. A place has been prepared for the erection of the fifth furnace when required. The chimney-stack has been enlarged, and large storage-bins for supplies to the furnace have been constructed, the water being drawn from the Junction North mine shaft, and sinking will be resumed early next week. The Central mine is putting out about 1200 tons per week, some of which goes to Dry Creek and the Clyde works, but the bulk to the smelters on the ground. There is nothing new to report underground. The main west crosscut on the 400 level is in 340ft., the face continuing in garnet sandstone, carrying cubical galena. The main north drive has now been extended 100ft., and has extended good grade oxidised ore again. The east crosscut off the south drive, which has been running towards the south shaft, is in 66ft. It passed through country all the way until the last two feet, when good-looking sulphide ore was struck underlaying to the east. The slopes on the 300ft. level are yielding the usual lode of ore from the south slope in extension of lode to north-west, being followed from seventh floor; and it looks very well, the ore being of a good payable grade. The supply of water continues sufficient for smelting purposes.

PAMBULA, TUESDAY.

The Mount Gahan Gold-mining Company held its annual meeting on Saturday. The directors appointed were Messrs. Rawlinson, M'Leod, M'Cabe, Tweedie, Clinch, and Peden. The company has decided to sink the shaft to 164ft. to intersect the tunnel to be put in at that level. The new manager, Mr. Hague, late of Mundarana, thinks very highly of the property. At Coman's, Huntingdon Hill, Mr. Gowing's battery will resume crushing immediately on, I understand, a good quality of stone. Roads from the field to the machinery are badly wanted. A 5dwt. piece was taken from the stone, Killarney claim, on Saturday.

Land in Pambula township, Quondolo-street, sold at nearly £5 per foot; a corner block was passed in at £7 17s 6d. Building in Quondolo and Toalla streets is going on apace, and it is expected matters will be lively next month. Gold from the Morning Star claim realised £3 17s 10d per oz. Total value of the free gold from the small parcel crushed at Gowing's local battery, £100 sterling,—concentrated, not treated.

GOULBURN, TUESDAY.

Satisfactory reports continue to be received from the Day Dawn gold mine, Little River, Braidwood. The manager reports splendid stone is being raised. A long run of the crushing machinery is expected.

GRAFTON, TUESDAY.

The general meeting of the Sir Walter Scott Gold-mining Company was held to-day in the presence of a large gathering of shareholders. The report and balance-sheet were adopted, and Messrs. Ancill and Bonnar were elected directors, with Messrs. See, Rankin, and M'Intosh. The mine manager's reports continue highly satisfactory. The engine should arrive at the mine this week, and an early crushing with the 10-head battery will follow. The lode keeps its full size and richness. The local people are jubilant that at last one of the many valuable properties is being fully and systematically developed, previous workings having been abandoned by the prospectors for want of capital. The prospects are causing other claims to be taken up by substantial syndicates for development, and the district which has previously furnished such heavy returns from surface workings is expected to become an extensive mining centre, as mining experts are arriving from the other colonies.

CRUSHING AND SMELTING RETURNS.

Sunny Corner Silver-mining Company, Limited.—Ore treated for week, 585 tons, producing 28 tons matte and bullion; estimated value, £1941.

Last Chance United, Ballarat, January 24.—Crushed 454 tons for 136oz. 3dwt.

North Woah Hawp.—Crushed 225 tons for 66oz. 3dwt.

Tom's Lewis Pond Silver and Gold Mine.—Smelted during the week 206 tons ore mixture, producing 22 tons matte containing 1785oz. silver, 60oz. gold, and 1¼ tons copper; also 3¼ tons bullion, containing 1315oz. silver and 45oz. gold. Total productions: 3080oz. silver, 84oz. gold, 5 tons lead, and 1¼ ton copper. The low tonnage passed through is partly attributable to the percentage of zinc and the comparatively low value of the matte, to the fact that the men have not yet got accustomed to the system inaugurated since the recent start, and as a consequence the ore so far has not been properly mixed. The sulphide ore has also not been so carefully burned as formerly, and consequently the amount of sulphide has been excessive, and has formed more matte than is desirable. However, all these difficulties are being overcome; as work proceeds it will be found that better results will be obtained, larger quantities treated, and the work generally improved.

Queenslander Gold-mining Company, Wattle Flat (by telegraph).—Cleaned plates for 60oz. amalgam, exclusive of boxes, for 10 days' crushing.

MANAGERS' REPORTS.

Round Hill, January 17.—Western crosscut has been very hard, consequently progress much slower than usual; total, 100ft. from shaft, being 18ft. from last report; anticipate change for the better shortly. Contractor's diamond drill commenced boring Monday last; drilled 3ft. hole 5ft., which has to be enlarged to 4½in. to admit of tubing. Favourable developments have taken place in the Silver Peak Silver-mining Company, which adjoins our No. 4 block on the western lode, which runs through a large portion of our No. 4 block, and through the full length of No. 3.

Victoria Cross, January 16.—The sinking of the shaft has been resumed. Contractors have sunk 4ft., 10ft. below the plat (342ft.), 331ft. from surface. No change to report in the sinking, except that there is a greater quantity of water making.

CITY OF SYDNEY IMPROVEMENT BOARD.

A meeting of the City Improvement Board was held yesterday afternoon, there being present—Messrs. Benjamin Backhouse (chairman), W. Bailey, J.P., Frank Senior, J.P., Dr. Craig-Dixson, and Mr. M'Rae, the city building surveyor, and the registrar (Mr. F. C. Rooke). After inspecting the premises which had been reported, the board returned to the board-room and took evidence.

A reference from the city building surveyor, in connection with premises situated in George-street known as No. 312, also as the Glasgow Arms Hotel, was considered. William Thompson, the agent for the trustee of the property, said that the building had been up about five years. Arthur Macready, architect, stated that he had examined the building, and proposed that there should be tie-rods from the back to the front walls, with plates, and that on the front plate a shore should be placed near the angle within the alignment of the adjoinment, and that the front plate should be an angle plate at the corner. This would form an angle tie. When these were screwed up the front shore could be removed. There was no tie in the joint of the front wall that he could see. If the shore were taken away he did not think the front of the building would stand unless first secured. The decision of the board was reserved pending a further report by the architect on behalf of the trustees, and in the meantime the chairman and Mr. Bailey are to act as a sub-committee to make a further examination of the building, and formulate an order.

A reference from the city building surveyor was received stating that a building in connection with premises situated at No. 23 Hunter-street, was in a ruinous and dangerous condition. Mr. Roberts appeared and applied for time. An order was made that the building should be taken down; but that if thoroughly secured and strengthened by shores and otherwise to the satisfaction of the city building surveyor, the building to be allowed to remain for four months.

The city building surveyor also reported certain buildings and a retaining wall connected with premises situated at the corner of George and Globe streets, known as No. 145 George-street, as being ruinous and dangerous. The agent attended, and evidence was called. The board ordered that the retaining wall and the back portions of the building be taken down forthwith, but that the shop fronting George-street be allowed to remain standing for three months.
